"LET THE 'IRISH' REALLY PLAY ONE GAME," ROGERS

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 6.—These post-season football games never decide a anything. But how would this one be?
We have a team out here called St. Mary's. (Sounds effeminate.) But they haven't lost a game since the year of the gold rush.
Take them and Notre Dame, but take all the Checos, Italians, Jewish, Swedes and Eskimos and all other nationalities off of both teams, then the Irish from both teams (they could get eleven) and then let the Irish play the foreigners.
That would outdraw any game in the world. Let Rockne coach the foreigners and Al Smith the Irish. That would be great.
Yours for games that decide something.
WILL ROGERS.

A moderation in the weather has taken place during the past 24-hour period. Weather prognostications, however, indicate the temperature will fall again towards the end of the week, and perhaps another zero blast will have swept in on us by Sunday.

Some avenues were coated with ice this morning and safe driving took unusual care. On most of the main thoroughfares the ice had been worn off.

Railroad ticket offices are kept busy this time of the year supplying reservations for folk who plan to spend the winter in Florida, California or elsewhere. Agents report that most of the planning is done prior to Christmas and the trip is usually started after the holidays.

Although plenty of deer seem to have been killed by New Castle hunters, Pa Newc has yet to hear of a bear being brought home. Either the bears are scarce this year or the hunters are a little shy of them.

After the street department had spent the better part of two days, removing the snow from the streets of the downtown section, Old Sol came out bright and warm, and took the major portion of the rest of it away.

Pa Newc observed several young Junior high students who evidently had not read Dr. Appel's warning against bare knees. They were proceeding blithely along North Mercer street this morning with their hose rolled clear down to their ankles.

Claims of New Castle people that they heard the plane of Thomas Nelson passing over here early Monday morning are possibly true, with the developments which have since arisen. Nelson's plane was found at Chagrin Falls, only a few miles from his destination. Several local residents state that they thought they heard a plane pass over here around 1:15 Monday morning.

Senate Takes Final Action In Vare's Case

Senate Also Denies Wilson Right To Seat In Senate

BATTLE OF THREE YEARS IS ENDED

Governor Fisher Can Now Appoint Senator To Fill Vacancy

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—After a three year battle over charges of slush fund in his primary and ballot frauds in his election, William S. Vare, the Republican boss of Philadelphia, was finally denied a seat in the senate today.

The senate's verdict retired Vare to private life even though he won Pennsylvania's 1926 senatorial election by an official plurality of nearly 200,000 votes.

Never Admitted
Despite his victory at the polls he never wore a senatorial toga, since the senate barred him at its door in March, 1927, by refusing him the oath of office. His only personal appearances in the chamber came today and Wednesday when he went upon the floor to make a personal plea for his seat—a plea permitted under a special rule of courtesy, but which was promptly ignored by the senate. He returned today to witness his own defeat.

The senate barred Vare on the grounds of excessive expenditures in his election, the Vare organization having been credited with $800,000 of expenses in his primary three years ago, and on the general ground of corruption in his election.

The vote was 58 to 22.

Wilson Also Rejected
Shortly after denying Vare his seat, the senate also rejected the claims of Wm. B. Wilson to it. Wilson, who was Secretary of Labor in Woodrow Wilson's cabinet, was Vare's Democratic opponent in the 1926 election, and brought a contest to the senate. (Continued On Page Two)

R. S. McComb Is Bandit Victim

Attacked And Robbed Of $34 At Union Township Farm

BANDIT LURES MAN TO COUNTRY

Following closely on the heels of the theater "stick-up" last night came the assaulting and robbing, at noon today of R. S. McComb, about 65 years of age, of 609½ Court street, this city, at the McCracken farm, West Washington street extension. After being blackjacked to the ground by a bandit the latter fled with $34. State police, Pennsylvania highway patrolmen and Sheriff Reynolds searched for the holdup man who apparently has escaped.

According to stories told the authorities two men, posing as linemen, visited McComb here last night and asked him to use his team and haul poles today from the McCracken farm.

Today he took his team and went to the McCracken place, about one mile west of the White schoolhouse. Before he reached the McCracken farm an auto proceeded suspiciously ahead of him.

McComb got out of the wagon and met the pseudo "linemen" who wielded a blackjack, knocking McComb down and causing five cuts on the rear of his head and a huge swelling above one of his eyes.
The bandit rifled McComb's pocket of $34 and fled. The car, said to be a Studebaker touring machine had also disappeared.
It is not yet known "intently if the bandit and the car had a connection. The men who visited McComb last night were attired as linemen. The wounds of the aged gentleman were dressed at the Russell farm.

SECOND EXPLOSION OCCURS IN MUNHALL

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 6.—A second explosion today shook Munhall's business section, sending nine persons to hospitals with injuries and damaging four more buildings. The second blast is believed to have been caused by gas which accumulated in adjoining buildings followed the disastrous explosion in the Munhall postoffice building yesterday. The blast today tore the fronts out of the buildings housing the Star drug store and a restaurant adjoining the ruins of the post office building. The structures housing the H. J. Patterson hardware store and the Belaney real estate office were also damaged by the force of the blast.

Pedestrians And Passengers On Street Car Injured As Blast Sweeps To Street

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—With five persons dead and 40 others injured following the terrific explosion which yesterday afternoon reduced to bits the two-story frame building housing the Munhall post office, investigations from four different angles of the fatal blast were launched today.

County, state, postal and gas company officials today are seeking the cause of the explosion which is believed to have followed the igniting of accumulated gas in the basement of the building. Faulty gas lines are blamed in some quarters for the accumulation, though how it was touched off is still a matter of conjecture.

Pedestrians walking by the post office and passengers in a street car which was directly in the path of the explosion formed the largest part of the list of injured. Their homes were in Munhall, Homestead, Braddock and East Pittsburgh, Swissvale and Whitaker.

Opposition To Tax Reduction In Senate Body

House Passes Tax Reduction Measure In Record Time; Is Presented To Senate

SEN. BROOKHART LEADS OPPOSERS

Republican And Democratic Leaders Alike Believe Bill Will Be Passed

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The administration's plan to make a $160,000,000 Christmas present to American income taxpayers in the form of tax reduction faced opposition in the senate today, after the house had enthusiastically endorsed it by an overwhelming vote.

Although Republican and Democratic leaders alike in the senate have pledged their support to the measure, a determined minority may attempt to block it by making use of the unlimited debate rules of that body.

In Record Time
The tax reduction resolution was passed by the house after three hours and a half debate on the fourth day of the new session—a record even for the house where the power of leaders and the rules make possible much faster action than in the senate.

Sen. Brookhart (R) of Iowa today appeared to be the leader of the senate opposition, and he predicted that he would gain much progressive support. Sen. Norris (R) of Nebraska, a power among the progressives, has indicated that he would not oppose it. The Iowan declared that he would (Continued On Page Fourteen)

Will Grundy Be Named For Place In Senate? Only Gov. Fisher Knows

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—The whispered query "Will it be Grundy?" floated zephyr-like through capitol political circles today and, zephyr-like, came back the answer: "Only Fisher knows."

As a weary senate filed into the chamber at Washington to vote at noon on the fate of Senator-elect William Scott Vare, veteran political leader, the identity of the man to be named by Governor John S. Fisher as Pennsylvania's junior senator remained as much a mystery today as it did months ago.

But out of the welter of probable candidates, one name insisted on coming back again into the discussion. That name was "Joseph R. Grundy."

Fisher is Silent.
Although Governor Fisher has remained adamant in his refusal to discuss in any way the problem of filling a senate vacancy, maintaining that it would be presumptuous to do so until the vacancy exists, the belief prevailed here that Governor Fisher will turn first to the little Bristol manufacturer.
Such a suggestion recently was ridiculed by practical politicians who

AS THREE-DAY SEARCH REVEALED AIR TRAGEDY

While Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and 32 pilots scoured the countryside of Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, two hunters ended the three-day search for Thomas Nelson, air mail flyer, when they came upon Nelson's body huddled in the snow, 40 feet from his wrecked plane on the slope of a ravine near Chagrin Falls, O., 20 miles east of Cleveland.

Nelson's half opened parachute was trailing from his back. He is believed to have crashed during a blizzard enroute from Bellefonte, Pa., to Cleveland. Lindbergh, who learned to fly with Nelson, flew from New York to join in the search. Photo shows Nelson's wrecked plane and, inset, recent photo of the dead pilot.

Discovery Reveals Pilot's Death Came From Exposure After Leap From Plane

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—Stunned by a short, jolting leap from his crashing airplane, Thomas P. Nelson, was found dead alongside his wrecked craft in a wooded ravine near Chagrin Falls yesterday. He died of exposure before he recovered consciousness, it was believed today following a preliminary coroner's investigation.

The aviator's parachute was opened, it was found, but apparently is only partially broke the force of his fall. It was estimated that Nelson leaped from a height of about 200 feet.

Discovery of Nelson's body and his wrecked plane was made by two rabbit hunters while one of the greatest searching squadrons ever assembled for a missing pilot was systematically scouring the countryside under the leadership of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The colonel, noticeably saddened by the disaster that had overtaken his former "buddy," was uncertain about his program today.

Nelson's body was to be sent to Plainfield, N. J., today where he has a wife and a young son. Funeral arrangements have not been completed but it is expected that many of the dead pilot's flying "buddies" will attend.

The rioting was attributed to high feeling among Communists against the United States resulting from the exchange of notes between Secretary of State Stimson and Acting Soviet Commissar of Foreign Relations Litvinoff of the Sino-Russ situation at Manchuria.

pointed out that the "grand-daddy of all lobbyists" did not desire the post. This, however, can not be said to be a bona fide explanation—especially in the light of recent developments that make it highly possible that Grundy may have experienced a change of heart.

Grundy has an undeniable personal following who bear loyal allegiance to his protective tariff policy. Though the pitiless blight of national political beat upon the blunt spoken president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association during the senate lobby investigation hearings Grundy emerged unscathed so far as Pennsylvania was concerned.

Not only emerged unscathed out, in fact, added to his prestige and solidified friendships in the Keystone state by his championing of Pennsylvania's cause and by his nimble verbal sparring with his senatorial inquisitors.

Grundy is in close touch with Pennsylvania's political kaleidoscope, no small factor when a senate appointment bobs up. A veteran campaigner, quick to discern and turn to account every possible advantage, Grundy could be looked to as the logical candidate to upset the vindication campaign which Vare is rumored to be planning for the May primaries.

Girl In Ticket Booth Is Robbed Thursday Night

Lone Bandit Takes About $150 From Capitol Theatre Funds

POINTS GUN AT GIRL; SEIZES CASH

Robber Is Pursued But Makes Get-a-way In Dark Alley

A "stickup man" apparently operating alone, but believed by the police authorities to have had accomplices in the vicinity, Thursday night, about 9:25 o'clock, held up Miss Helen Harding, ticket seller at the Capitol Theatre, South Mercer street, at the point of the gun and escaped with a bag of change.

Loss of the theatre is estimated by Nick Askounes, house manager at between $150 and $175. This represented the change and not the entire day's receipts. The major portion of the money, several hundred dollars, contained in a tin cash box, was saved through the rare presence of mind of Miss Harding.

A Pennsylvania license number secured by Officer Willis McMullen on a car on South Beaver street, which he suspected of being in the hands of a bootlegger, just shortly before he was advised of the Capitol robbery, is believed to have been the car of the stickup man and his pals. The license was issued to a resident of Philadelphia.

Eye Witness.
There was one actual eye-witness of the robbery, Henry Druschel, of 416 Highland avenue, who was directly across the street in the Henry hotel.

S. P. Wise, of Pittsburgh, who was at the theatre checking up on the picture being shown, gave chase to the stickup man, as he was called, and only gave up the chase, when his quarry turned up South Cochran Way, which is quite dark.

"I don't mind chasing a robber through a well lighted street," said Mr. Wise, following the chase, "but when it comes to dark alleys and big gangs in the hands of a real crook like that fellow, well, I draw the line. I didn't care to take a chance with an armed criminal in the alley."

Police Notified.
Police were informed immediately following the stickup job and all available men were sent out, while the officers on the various beats adjacent to the scene of the robbery were advised of the situation.

The police of Youngstown, Sharon, Beaver Falls and Butler were notified and the headquarters of the state police in Pittsburgh advised by the new printer telegraph and the description of the man and the license number of the suspected car was sent out over such part of the statewide telegraph printer system as is in use at the present time.

(International News Service)
MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Dec. 6.—Preparations were being made today to take the body of United States Representative W. W. Griest, who died here last night at the Park Hotel after an illness of five months, to his home at Lancaster, Pa., for burial.

A son, George, was to arrive here today to make final arrangements. Representative Griest came to Mt. Clemens for treatment for arthritis. He was recovering when pneumonia developed. His physician, Dr. Oswald Steumer, was in constant attendance for more than a week at his bedside. Last week Dr. C. J. Jennings, head of the Detroit diagnostic clinic, was called into consultation.

A week ago the Park Hotel was closed for the season, but a special staff was kept to care for Representative Griest, as his physician declared he was too ill to be moved.

claiming that fraud and corruption tainted him to a victory.

The net result of the senate's double-barreled action is to create a vacancy in the senate from Pennsylvania, which Gov. John S. Fisher can fill by appointment.

The vote denying Wilson was 66 to 15.

Vare sat silently on the floor of the senate while the vote was taken. He was accompanied by his personal physician, Dr. John J. Shaw. In the gallery were his wife and his daughters.

As the senate pronounced his doom, Vare rose slowly helped by his physician and limped painfully out of the chamber. Just as he reached the door, Senator Schall (R) of Minnesota, the blind senator, stepped out and put his arms around the Philadelphian. Schall hugged Vare for a moment, speaking a word of encouragement and then Vare departed from the chamber in which he has fought for three years for a seat.

As viewed by government officials, the chief value of yesterday's gathering was the mutual assurance given interdependent industries that there is to be no retrenchment in 1930.

Thus any uneasiness that might have been felt in the steel industry, for instance, was allayed by the assurance of construction leaders, automobile manufacturers and railroads that their requirements next year are to be normal. The lumber people, cement people and manufacturers in many lines were similarly assured.

The hundreds of executives drawn to Washington for yesterday's epochal session were scattering to their homes today to carry on.

years of age, and has been employed at the Capitol for four years, was completing a checkup of the cash receipts and ticket sales of the theatre for the day, when the stickup man, described as being five feet eight or nine inches in height, heavy set, 28 years of age, wearing a gray overcoat and gray felt hat, his face covered by a dark colored beard of several days growth and brown eyes, came to the ticket booth.

"Give me the box," were the rather startling words addressed to Miss Harding, causing her to pause in her work and look up.

Believing that it was an effort to have some fun with her, Miss Harding replied "Oh Yes."

Thought A Joke.
As the man repeated the demand, Miss Harding said "Go on, don't bother me," still thinking it was a joke.

"Give me that box" repeated the man for the third time and as he made the demand, Miss Harding looked into the muzzle of a revolver which she stated afterward, looked quite large.

Convinced that the time for thinking it was a joke was over, Miss Harding, with rare presence of mind, pulled the tin box on top of which was the bag of change, at the same time kicking open the back door of the ticket booth and calling to House Manager Nick Askounes, who was standing in the rear of the lobby with Charles Freeman, one of the proprietors and S. P. Wise, of Pittsburgh, the picture checker.

As she did so, the stickup man reached in and managed to grab the bag of change from the top of the tin cash box. He was still attempting to grab the tin cash box, which had been pulled back just far enough to make it hard for him to touch, when House Manager Nick Askounes reached the booth.

On seeing Askounes, the stickup man let go his slight hold on the cash box and fled down South Mercer street with S. P. Wise, of Pittsburgh, in close pursuit. The latter followed him down Mercer, over South street to South Cochran way. When the stickup man turned north on Cochran way.

Mr. Wise ceased his effort, being unarmed and deeming it unwise to attempt to confront the stickup man in the dark alley.

Believe Three in Robbing.
It was principally through Henry Druschel that the police learned that there were probably three men connected with the job.

He was enroute to the Henry hotel, when at the entrance of the former barroom of the hotel, in the shadow of the doorway, he noticed two men. There was a third man, whom he afterwards saw do the stickup job, at the curb.

There was something in the actions of the three that made him suspicious and as he entered the Henry hotel he turned around in time to see the Market way, while the third man at the curb crossed the street to the theatre.

As he looked, he saw the third man apparently engaged in joking with the ticket seller, when all of a sudden the man reached into the booth and took something and started to run down the street.

Officer McMullen was making his way down Diamond way, about 9:30 p. m., unaware as yet of the robbery, when he noticed a man at Lawrence street. This man called out to two others beside a car down Diamond way beside the Interstate Creamery building.

He questioned the men, who claimed to be arguing about an accident that had occurred at South Jefferson and Market way, near the Chirazzi barbershop. It seemed that the car standing beside the creamery had been hit by an Ohio license car as it came out of Market way a few minutes previous. There was nothing to indicate anything out of the way.

McMullen made his way toward South Beaver on Lawrence street, when the Pennsylvania license car turned onto South Beaver from Bridge street and went north. Suspicious that it might be to a car of a bootlegger, McMullen took the license number.

At least one suspect was arrested by Detective John Young and Officer Letera and taken for Miss Harding to see. They went west a considerable distance looking for the automobile under suspicion.

Tells Story of Holdup.
The following is the story told by Miss Harding to a representative of The News:

"I thought that he was only kidding me at first," said Helen Harding, young and attractive ticket-seller at the Capitol theatre, today in telling her story of the holdup to a News reporter.

"At first I didn't see the gun that he had leveled at me, and when he said 'hand over that cash box,' I simply stared at him nonchalantly and replied 'Oh yeah.'"

"Often times my friends step up to the window and playfully say hands up or something to scare me, and I thought that it was another practical joker."

"The robber again demanded the money box, and this time he said it more gruffly. I looked up and it was then that I noticed the gun, a small black one."

"I just stared at the young man. I couldn't seem to say anything or move, but the gun getting bigger and bigger, but this was, of course, only my imagination."

"The third time he demanded the money box and he said to be quick about it. I had a handful of pennies and a bag of money in front of me. The cash box was a little to the side out of reach of the man who was standing in front of the ticket booth. The thug grabbed the money bag and fled."

"The next thing that I knew, Mr. Freeman was asking me what was the matter. The only thing that I could say was 'he took the money.'"

"Give me the box," I guess that it had happened so quickly that I didn't have time to be scared."

When questioned closely Miss Harding said that she could easily identify the thug if he is apprehended.

"I secured a very good look at him. He was wearing a soft grey felt hat and had on a light grey felt hat. He did not wear a mask. He had nice brown eyes and a swarthy complexion. He needed a shave very badly."

Hilda Anderson, 10, of Munhall, and Martin King of North Braddock are so seriously injured that physicians fear they will not live the day through.

The explosion came during the noon hour when the streets were filled with employees on their way back to work after lunch.

Nineteen of the more seriously hurt are in the hospital at Homestead today. The rest were treated in hastily improvised first aid booths and dressing stations and sent to their homes.

William A. Kessler, general superintendent of mails for the Homestead district estimated the total damage of the blast at $100,000, $20,000 of which is suffered by the government owned property. The Munhall office had been renovated recently, Kessler said.

John Conway, assistant postmaster said that he had noticed the odor of sulfur in the building several hours before the explosion, but that he had been unable to trace the source of it. Postmaster Edward Riley said that he had noticed the odor, too, but did not know from where it came.

Squadrons of firemen, reinforced by Homestead Steel Company police, superintended the rescue work and brought order out of the sudden chaos by their systematic handling of the rescue work. Miss F. V. Conductor Tells Story.
Pittsburgh, Dec. 6.—From a bed in the Homestead hospital, where he is suffering from burns, lacerations of the head and body and probable internal injuries, Barkley Stack, of Pittsburgh, conductor of the ill-fated street car which was caught in the path of the blast that wrecked the Munhall post office building, killing five and injuring forty others, tells his story of the explosion.

"I heard a deafening noise and the next thing I knew I was lying bleeding on the floor of the car. In my dazed condition I noticed splintered glass three inches deep on the floor. There were about 20 passengers in the car. All were fighting and clamoring at the doors. I opened them and the passengers fled out. I dragged myself through the doors to the street and collapsed."

"I remember seeing a woman holding her head and heard her screaming. She had been cut by flying glass. The next thing I knew I was being carried to a ward hospital. My lot could have been much worse. It's lucky I wasn't killed."

Pittsburgh, Dec. 6.—Ernest Caspare, 25, of Munhall, one of the five victims in the fatal Munhall post office blast yesterday, was killed in the full sight of his mother, Mrs. Mary Caspare. He was the fourth of her sons to die a violent death.

Mrs. Caspare was a passenger in a bus which stopped within a hundred yards of the post office, and she came out of the bus and ran toward the laboratory of the Homestead Steel Works to get a bit of fresh air. While she watched him eagerly for an opportunity to greet him with a wave of her hand, she saw the terrific explosion sweep him off his feet and bury him in debris just as he reached the post office.

Mrs. Caspare, moaning with grief could only answer questions about her other sons with "my poor boy, my poor boy, just like the others."

Uncle Sam Owns In Cash And Paper Sum Is Well Over Billion

Cash And Paper Business Of Government Will Total About $1,865,000,000

Largest Quarterly Financing Turnover Periods In Recent Years

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Uncle Sam will have a cash and paper business Dec. 15 of approximately $1,865,000,000, one of the largest quarterly financing period turnovers in recent years.

Treasury experts today estimated income and corporation tax collections for the final payment of the year would total from $510,000,000 to $530,000,000, about $100,000,000 greater than last December.

Other principal transactions will include retirement of $700,000,000 in treasury certificates, issue of $325,000,000 in certificates and $1,000,000,000 in treasury bills, a payment of $97,000,000 interest on the public debt, receipts of the same amount from foreign powers of their war debts, and about $21,000,000 daily receipts and expenditures.

Will Be Sold.
In announcing the December financing, totaling $425,000,000, Secretary Mellon said that details of the treasury bill issue would be made public Dec. 10. This will mark the first use of bills, authorized at the last regular session of congress. They will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidder.

The last month of the first half of the new fiscal year started off with the government $213,155,000 "in the hole", compared to a deficit of $439,292,000 the same time last year. Receipts amounted to $1,348,562,900 an increase of $119,000,000 over the same period last year, while ordinary expenditures were $1,316,893,000, an increase of $23,000,000. Owing to smaller operations in the sinking fund total expenditures of $1,561,718,000 this year were considerably under 1928.

Receipts Are Heavier.
All important items of government receipts were heavier. Income and corporation taxes accounted for $670,517,000, a gain of about $90,000,000, which will push the total for the complete half-year to well over $1,100,000,000. Customs receipts were $267,494,000, an increase of $7,000,000, and miscellaneous internal revenue $273,253,000, a gain of $15,000,000. Tobacco taxes continued to show material gains, more than offsetting some losses in other miscellaneous collections.

Operation of the government departments and bureaus cost $894,719,000, a gain of over $50,000,000. Interest costs were lighter and there was a bigger decline in the refund of taxes.

BRIBES BOY TO STEAL CANARY; IS JAILED

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 6.—The stealing of a canary is pretty small, but to bribe a 13 year old boy to do it is a larger crime.

Frank Custer, 34 and father of eight children, was recently sentenced to three months by Judge T. J. S. Waxler, after it had been found he had bribed the boy to steal the bird. He offered the youth a bicycle to steal for him.

Gangland Claims Another Victim

Bullet-Riddled Body Of Brooklyn Gangster Found In Street; Taken For Ride

WELL ACQUAINTED WITH RACKETEERS

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Gangland chipped another notch in its gun with the discovery today of the bullet-riddled body of Phil Diana in the gutter of a Brooklyn street.

Diana, whose real name was Sylvester Gralusso, was a friend of Frankie Yale and Frankie Marlowe, slain racketeers, and Al Capone, overlord of Chicago gangdom. He is credited with having boldly declared that he knew who took Marlowe for a ride and would settle with them himself.

Police learned Diana left a night club with three men who called him, and are of the opinion he was taken for a ride and his body dumped from an automobile.

TRANSFUSES YOUNG BLOOD IN OLD VEINS

(International News Service)
PARIS, Dec. 6.—The transfusion of young blood into aged veins will bring back youth, is the belief of Dr. H. Jaworski, Polish-South American scientist.

He has succeeded in doing this with horses and goats and is doing similar transfusions, with humans at his private clinic here. Through the transfusions, he says he grew hair on his own head, which was bald before.

COLLINGSVILLE, Conn., Dec. 6.—Ralph Dowd, the town tax collector, strolled back in his auto in an isolated part of the town after a fruitless day of hunting and was about to step into it when a cock pheasant crashed through the windshield and was instantly killed, tumbling on the driver's seat.

Story based on the recent Wall Street CRASH!

IT WAS A GOOD STORY BUT HE LANDED IN JAIL

UNION, N. J., Dec. 6.—A story in two parts:
George Bronkof, local storekeeper, told Police Chief Hopkins he had been beaten unconscious, bound, gagged, robbed of $95 and his store set afire.

Chief Hopkins found $95 in a pocket of the two pairs of pants Bronkof was wearing, discovered both entrances to the store had been locked from the inside, smelling newly sprinkled kerosene in the store, uncovered a gallon can of the combustible in the rafters, and heard from the police surgeon that Bronkof showed no signs of a beating.

Chief Hopkins put Bronkof under arrest for felonious arson.

TROUSER DRESS FAVORITE

At one of London's smartest dance clubs recently a vote was taken to determine which dress had the most admirers. The winning dress was of transparent net revealing close-fitting satin trousers trimmed in lace. Almost every woman said, "I would love a dress like that."

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

THE THRILL OF KNOWING

The Classical League of America is to make a praiseworthy effort to direct the attention of the people of this country to the beauty and importance of Latin literature. The year of the 2000th anniversary of Virgil's birth begins in the fall of 1930. That year will have special observance by the Classical League. You may or may not care for your Virgil, but it is pleasant to hear in these days of "barber shop blues," hysterical guitar songs designed for the flapper trade, and books that go wild, that there is such a thing as a Classical League and somebody who thinks it worth while to promote learning that won't bring you a dollar or even a kind word.

Nobody who does not have the satisfaction of knowing a few beautiful and perfectly useless things has much conception of the happy possibilities of education.

FIXING THE BLAME

Let's not blame the college boys for all that goes on in college. The official social director of Chicago university suggests that fraternities provide brawny bouncers to keep interlopers and gate-crashers out of their nice parties. And somebody else makes complaint that most of the drunkenness and disorder that have been brought on by alumni who return to fraternity houses on football days or other occasions.

Perhaps we are going to find out that the average college boy is just a victim of his big brother of the alumni.

PRINCE DIPLOMATIC

The Prince of Wales, making a speech in Bradford, center of the wool industry of England, says: "It is not for me to express whether women look better in short or in long dresses, but for the sake of Bradford's trade I hope they will be long."

The Prince of Wales, except when he rides a horse, makes few mistakes.

PRESCRIBED READING

If schools and school teachers could discover some way—as a few of them do—of creating in your minds the love of study, the love of learning, the sense of beauty, they would be the greatest possible schools and school teachers. Talk to the average student about his courses and he will tell you about his "prescribed reading." He is taking a certain course and in order to get credit he "has to do" some reading on the side. It's all an effort, all a job, all a chore. It is something prescribed, like bitter medicine.

It's a wonderful teacher who can make sweet the thing prescribed.

Egypt's Future To Depend On Rice

(International News Service) CAIRO, Dec. 6.—In rice lies the future of Egypt.

For a super-rice can be produced abundantly in the rich loam of the Nile Valley.

This is the report of Charles Douglas, a prominent English agricultural expert who has devoted some time to an extensive survey of Egyptian conditions.

As a result of his report to the government steps to explain this Egyptian rice are to be taken, beginning with the establishment of an up-to-date factory for the various operations in connection with the preparation of rice, with a rice specialist probably from England in charge.

Experiments and research will be continued and authorities are convinced that the ancient wealth and importance of Egypt may be to some extent recaptured through exploitation of new rice fields.

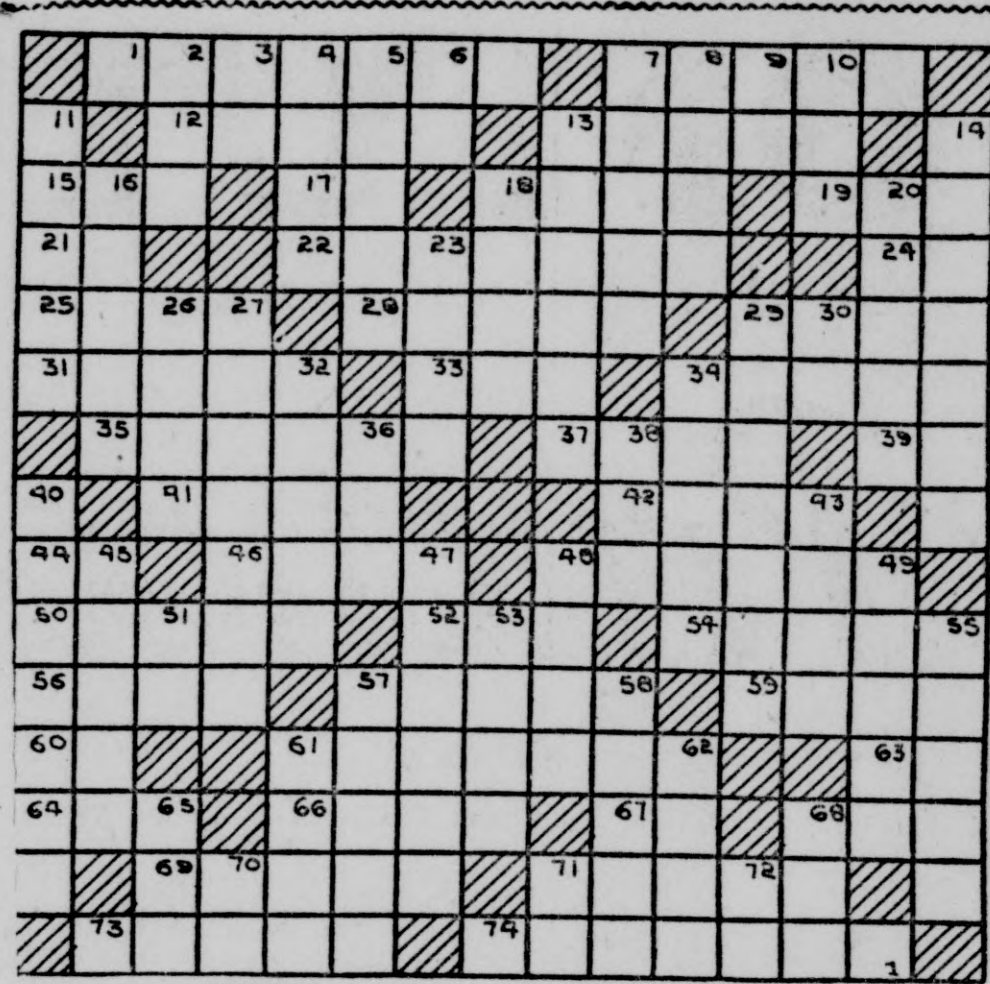

Normal times are those in which a timid man kicks himself around the block for not buying bargains during the panic.

his young son's actions. "You are a sulky little beetle Biffer" said he sternly. "I have a good mind to box you. I don't know what your mother would say if she saw you now."

Biffer did have the grace to look a bit ashamed of himself but he muttered under his breath:

"If Cousin Sexton Beetle dines on a fat mouse now and again I don't see how there can be anything so wrong about it. At least I'd like to taste mouse meat. If I didn't like it I could leave it alone you know dad." Father Beetle stared at Biffer for a long moment then he made up his mind to let his small son learn a lesson from experience.

"Very well son if there is any here who will go as your guest to Cousin Sexton's feast you shall decide for yourself whether I am right or wrong and make up your own mind whether you will do as Gun Beetles do or will change your customs to those of Cousin Sexton."

"Fine!" shouted Biffer and threw his little hat into the air. "Now I shall dine on new fare. Who will go with me to Cousin Sexton's feast?"

Not a beetle spoke for the honor. Then Grass-Green lazily drawled. "Count me out please!" And one after another all the beetles cried— "And me!" "and me!" "and me!"

When Peter saw how disappointed Biffer looked when not a single Gun Beetle accepted his invitation he said: "I'll go with you Biffer if you like," and then almost regretted his offer. Certainly he didn't care to make a meal on rice but he did want to find out who Cousin Sexton was. Besides he had come to like little Biffer and had a notion to make the youngster happy. He succeeded well.

Czech Government Bans Novel Of War

(International News Service) PRAGUE, Dec. 6.—The Czechoslovakian Ministry of War is afraid of Remarque's famous war novel "All Quiet on the Western Front" which has been read by millions of readers all over the world.

The Ministry has ordered the book banned from all army libraries. The Socialist newspaper "Pravo Lidu" in a bitter comment on the ministry's action says:

"A soldier who knows the perils of war but who goes into battle convinced his fight is for a just cause is more valuable than one who is going in with closed eyes, trained only for war without realizing its horrors."

Agree On Type Of Colony Cottages

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—The type of cottages to be erected during the present biennium for enlargement of the Selinsgrove State Colony for Epileptics was recently agreed upon at a meeting of the board of trustees of the state department of welfare.

Each of the four new cottages to be erected during the next year and a half will be of the one story type similar to the three cottages erected during the last biennium, and will accommodate 50 patients. A service unit is also to be erected housing a kitchen and dining room for patients in the four new cottages.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Some day Wes Davy will learn not to trifle with experts. After last night's debacle on the alleys, he may be convinced that the pay off in bowling comes after the third game, not before the first.

For two weeks he and his cement office men have been promising to take The News editorial team like Grant took Richmond, or was it Clara Bow took Richmond? Every afternoon he was down on the alleys practicing for the match but it was no use.

As a match game it was something to put in a museum. The editorial team went into the game as the underdog and came out on the third floor. Unfortunately the cement team cracked in the first and second games and what happened was a landslide.

In the third game the cement lads pulled themselves together and came out ahead but the lead established in the early precincts by The News was too much. And now the thing has to be done all over again next Tuesday evening.

There were so many rooters present that some of the fat boys bowling had to take a deep breath to get back of the foul line. Attorney Thomas W. Dickey was present to arbitrate all difference but even with a cigar as a retainer from Davy he couldn't find anything to appeal.

One of the social features of the evening was the nose dive performed by Bob Long. He got seven pins on the effort and 50 percent for form.

You might have known that something spectacular would happen. Just in way of celebration, a couple of yeggs stuck up the Capitol theatre and took the night's receipts. There is some suspicion abroad that this was done to distract the news hounds but Harry Bell who was a reserve player covered the holdup and the rest of the gang covered the alleys.

And if this paragraph doesn't get in Wes Davy will swear that there was something crooked about the whole thing. Wes was matched against the conductor of this column and won the three game competition. But his team mates laid down on him or something.

The full account will be found on the sport page if you're interested.

This is the night The News family gets together, wraps a lip around a plate of roast turkey, has a lot of fun and does a little hoofing out at the Field club. And customers if you think the gang here hasn't been cutting down on their groceries for a couple of days in order to have plenty of room for the feed, you're wrong.

Printer Is Killed
By Police Auto

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Dec. 6.—Struck by a cruising police car driven by Officer J. M. Burns, John P. McLaughlin, 40, a printer, was killed yesterday. McLaughlin had alighted from a street car when the police car careened into him. Police had been chasing a speeder and were unable to stop their machine, which skidded on the icy pavement.

Potato Crop In 1930 Bigger In Many Sections

Southern Sections Of Nation Will Increase Acreage During Coming Year

FLORIDA LEADS IN VOLUME OF INCREASE

(International News Service) BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 6.—Early potato growers in eleven southern states reported their intention to increase the acreage of potatoes about 12 per cent over that planted in 1929, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, made public by the New England Crop Reporting Service.

Florida growers report intentions to increase their acreage 36 per cent over that planted this year or ten per cent more than was intended some time ago as stated in the Early Potato Outlook Report for the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas and Florida.

Acreage Grows
This brought the intended acreage to be planted in 1930 by Florida growers to 30,200 acres, or approximately that planted in 1928. Texas growers intend to increase 16 per cent.

The reported increases for the remaining states were as follows: Alabama 27 per cent; Louisiana 15 per cent; Georgia 33 per cent; South Carolina 8 per cent; North Carolina 9 per cent; Arkansas 19 per cent; Oklahoma 15 per cent; Virginia 2 per cent; and Maryland 9 per cent.

This statement of farmers' intention to plant is not a forecast of the acreage that will actually be planted, the Crop Reporting Service declared.

Farmers' Program
It is simply an indication of what farmers had in mind to plant at the time they made their reports, compared with the acreage planted by them last year, and was made public at the request of the growers to aid them in formulating their plans for the coming year.

The acreage actually planted may be larger or smaller than the early reports indicated, due to weather conditions, price changes, labor supply or limitation of credit, and the effect of this report upon purchasers' action. Compilations were made by C. D. Stevens and G. Burmeister, statisticians of the Crop Reporting Service for New England.

97 Pound Woman Jumps 8600 Feet In Parachute

(International News Service) LEIPZIG, Dec. 6.—A parachute jump from a height of 8,600 feet was performed by a well known parachute jumper, Mrs. Lola Schroeter-Vorescu here. She landed safely in Moemkern, four miles from where she left the airplane.

This long way through the air was due to the fact that Mrs. Schroeter-Vorescu weighs only 97 pounds. It was her 90th jump after a five years successful career in this sport.

Meteor Kills Two At Merry Wedding Party

(International News Service) BELGRADE, Dec. 6.—Death stepped into merry making country folks and spread terror among the wedding party when a red hot meteorite suddenly crashed out of the sky into a bridal procession at Zvezan crushing to death one of the bridesmaids and the best man.

The two villagers were instantly killed by the stone the radius of which measured 50 centimeters. The meteorite came down with the loud screeching sound of a big shell but an escape was impossible.

Installment Buying Is Studied At University

DANGER LIES IN REDUCING DIETS

Unless They Have Bulk, Constipation Is Inevitable

Today thousands of young women and girls are wondering why they are so miserable as they diet to reduce.

The trouble is that many of the new diets lack roughage which is necessary to clean the intestinal system. The symptoms are headaches, "gone" feelings and bad complexion. If allowed to continue constipation with its evils occurs.

By including Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in a reducing diet, you keep fit as you take off weight because you prevent constipation.

ALL-BRAN does not add fat to the body. It just sweeps the intestines clean of poisonous wastes. No pills nor drugs can play the part of ALL-BRAN in a reducing diet. Their dose has to be constantly increased and harmful results often follow.

You will like the appetizing, nut-sweet flavor of ALL-BRAN. Eat it in soups. On salad. Soaked in orange, prune or fruit juice. As a cereal with milk or cream. Delicious with honey added. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal.

Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Served in hotels, restaurants, dining-cars. Sold by all grocers.

Better Fire Protection Is Urged On New Wilmington Council

(Special To The News) NEW WILMINGTON, Dec. 6.—The last regular meeting of the Council for several of the old members was held this week. Former councilmen James Rose and Williamson will be replaced by newly elected councilmen Price, Monroe and McQuiston.

Mr. Coulter presented his resignation to council. Because of Mr. Coulter being borough treasurer, it was necessary for him to relinquish his position on council since it is illegal for him to serve in both capacities.

James Pitzer, representing the volunteer fire department, was present, and asked council to consider the matter of purchasing some new fire apparatus. A committee was appointed to investigate the cost of a new engine pumper suitable for the needs of the borough.

Burgess Campbell made a request that the council furnish a snow plow for use in keeping the sidewalks clean during the winter. This matter was referred to the street committee.

At the next regular meeting of council, the three newly elected members will be sworn in by Burgess Campbell, and officers will be elected.

Referendums Would Put End To All War

(International News Service) OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 6.—War referendums—letting the people decide—would abolish hostilities between the nations of the world, according to Alan B. Houghton, former ambassador of the United States to the Court of St. James, here on a visit.

"Put the matter of war up to the people," he said.

"The peoples of the nations are the ones that ultimately pay for wars. They fight in them, provide the sinews of war, and bear the burden of suffering. Let them decide, by ballot or some other such referendum, before any war is declared, and we will have abolished war," he said.

Houghton declined to discuss Ambassador Charles G. Dawes' knee pants, the possibility of war between the United States and England, the place of modern woman and her bearing on future wars or his personal activities.

County Federation

Of Women's Clubs

To every club woman of Lawrence County we recommend that she take Tuesday's issue of The New Castle News and with pencil in hand turn to the President's address, as given to congress, and make a careful study of that document; marking every recommendation, and suggestion of important procedure, that the President offers to our law-making body.

It is impossible to dwell in thought on these recommendations and suggestions without realizing the big-ness of the task that confronts our congressmen. If we but once realize this and sense the importance of undertaking and accomplishing these imposed tasks, then we will face as never before the necessity of sending men to congress who are able mentally, morally, and spiritually to carry out these recommendations and suggestions that have been made to them. The sending of these men to Washington is the task that is ours and no less in importance than the one that is theirs.

We glory in the independent vote of the women for by that independent and disconcerting vote will the dirty politician and the wily politician be dethroned at last. We urge and we pray that women will always be independent voters—this is not the prayer of the politician which but proves its worth.

Back of that independent vote of ours, women, must be knowledge and understanding and appreciation of the making of laws and the power that lies in our hands. Back of that independent vote must be the unselfish determination to put the right men, the capable men, in places of power.

If you have followed the recommendation just made to you, then, as you have penciled through the document and noted the vast amount of work entailed in research, in statistics to be gathered before any of these proposed tasks can be consummated you have a clearer idea of the workings of congress.

Pencil these words of the President also: "The problems with which we are confronted are the problems of growth and of progress. In their solution we have to determine the facts, to develop the relative importance to be assigned to such facts, to formulate a common judgment upon them, and to realize solution in a spirit of conciliation."

You have penciled the recommendations concerning a commission for Haiti, and why; more liberal appropriations for the state department, and why; diplomats for South America, and why; more prudent action for relief from mounting expenditures for flood control, and why; a change in the Federal Power commission, and why; a reorganization of the Radio commission, and why; additional appropriation for federal employment service, and why; all these and more you have noted carefully.

With a blue pencil which represents the blue blood that runs in our veins, mark this also: "However much we may perfect the mechanism, still if the citizen who is himself dependent upon some laws for the protection of all that he has and all that he holds dear, shall insist on selecting the particular law which he will obey, he undermines his own safety and that of his country. His attitude may be obscure, but it can not conceal the ugly truth that the law-breaker, whoever he may be, is the enemy of society."

No one with blue blood in their veins will class themselves with murderers, thieves, libertines and other law-breakers.

With a red pencil which represents the fighting blood of a nation mark this also: "We can no longer gloss

FRENCHMAN AT 80 MAKES BICYCLE TOUR

(International News Service) NANCY, Dec. 6.—Emile Korn aged 80, is making a thorough tour of France on his bicycle. He goes ten hours a day and after several weeks of pedalling says he feels no effects whatsoever. He intends visiting every nook and corner of his country. His ride has taken him back to Alsace where he was born and which he has not seen for 60 years.

Korn says that if the younger generation would go in for cycling instead of motor-driving they would stand a better chance at living to a good old age.

Lindbergh Resting After Ordeal

Gives No Indication Of What Program For Day Will Be

(International News Service.) CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—Fatigued from the strenuous ordeal of the last 36 hours and unhappy from the tragic death of his old friend and "buddy" of his air mail route days in St. Louis, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh rested late today with orders "not to be disturbed."

"Slim" as he is best known to pilots the country over declined to make any statement regarding the fate of Thomas P. Nelson, air mail pilot whose body was discovered yesterday after a three-day search. Lindbergh's attitude, however, was evident that he was pretty badly broken up about the death of his friend.

The Colonel had battled darkness and snow and sleet to come here from New York early Thursday to lead a search for his "buddy" who had been lost since early Monday while flying the New York-Cleveland mail route in the face of a blinding snowstorm.

Colonel Lindbergh has given no indication as to what his program for today will be.

Model Husband Faces Death In Electric Chair

John Preston, Chicago, Found Guilty Of First Degree Murder In Death Of Girl

(International News Service) WHEATON, Ill., Dec. 6.—John Preston, "model husband," today faces death in the electric chair for the murder and mutilation of Agnes Johnston, stenographer strangled on a lonely road on the outskirts of Chicago.

A jury returned a verdict of guilty in Judge William Fulton's court here after more than three hours deliberation. The defendants unsuccessful defense was based on the plea he beat and strangled his companion while under the influence of poisonous liquor.

Sentence was deferred until December 14 when motion for a new trial will be made.

Superstition Is Still Prevalent

A woman recently died because her superstition would not allow her to call in a doctor on Friday. Saturday was too late. That superstition is still alive, is to some extent proven by the fact that hundreds of thousands of people still consider that it is unlucky to spill salt. That three candles on a table bring bad luck. That crossed knives spell unhappiness. That to cut one's nails on Friday is to court disaster. That the new moon seen through glass is an evil portent. That to open an umbrella in the house means misfortune. Similarly, how many do not believe that it is lucky for a black cat to cross one's path, or that to fall upstairs spells a wedding. There are probably several million people in England today who exclaim "Touch wood" on the slightest provocation. In the country villages of England the inhabitants firmly believe that to see a white horse means the presence in the vicinity of a red-headed girl, while a cross-eyed villager is still an object of suspicion to be combatted by crossed fingers and a whispered incantation. Sailors and Irishmen are unanimously awarded pride of place among believers in superstitions, nevertheless, the Londoner is hard to beat.—London Mail.

Uses Stills For Chicken Coops

FORREST CITY, Ark., Dec. 6.—Building chicken coops and brooder houses out of old stills is the ingenious idea of Mrs. Joe Campbell, whose husband is sheriff. Sheriff Campbell makes a great many raids and the stills he brings home "clutter up the chicken yard," his wife explained. So when she needed chicken coops and brooder last spring and the sheriff was too busy to build them she set out to make her own. She cut the top, or funnel part of the still off and then cut a small door in the cylinder, then turned it upside down and lo! it no longer was a still, but a chicken coop. As for the chickens they seem perfectly contented, and not at all bothered about the prohibition question, Mrs. Campbell reports.

Painting By Barber Bought By French

(International News Service) PARIS, Dec. 6.—John Barber, young American painter, had an exceptional tribute paid him recently by the French Government when they purchased his painting entitled, "Boulangerie Portugaise." Barber's works are now being exhibited at the Luxembourg Museum. The many collections shown include works of the most talented of the modern painters and it is rare that the works of a young artist is brought into this collection. Barber is well-known in the United States. He was editor of "Masses," when Max Eastman was editor. He has contributed drawings to many other American magazines and journals. He studied in New York for a while, but he has done most of his work abroad.

London Musicians Back To Movies

(International News Service) LONDON, Dec. 6.—"Real" musicians are being brought back to the big movie theatres of London by the hundred.

London audiences have shown, in emphatic ways, that they do not like "tinned" music.

A little over six months ago, when the talkies first came into general use, it looked as though mechanical accomplishments would displace the living orchestra in nearly every movie.

After the first two or three weeks, however, the big motion picture corporations were snowed under with letters from their patrons complaining of the "dreary canned music." It has now been realized that this was passing dislike.

Musicians are naturally delighted because it seemed, for a time, that their occupation was being permanently taken from them.

LITHOPOLIS, O., Dec. 6.—The "happiest" family in the animal kingdom, composed of three baby groundhogs, two kittens, a spaniel dog and a cat, lives at the home here of Frank Rothfuss.

The burden of this unique family falls upon the dog and cat. The cat brought in the groundhogs, which became so friendly with the kittens that they were adopted.

For guarding the kittens the dog is rewarded with food gathered by the cat on her foraging trips.

Handshaking Is Spreader Of Germs

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—If you meet your best friend on the street and he refuses to shake hands, don't clout him over the head, for he might be shunning those millions of death-dealing microbes which you conceal on your grimy palm.

Tests taken at Columbia University, according to Lella Given, research student, prove that handshaking is dangerous, for it transmits germs from one person to another.

"The present series of experiments shows that bacteria are transferred from one hand to another in the process of handshaking," she says.

"These facts lead us to conclude that handshaking may be a source of infection and that one of the means of transferring infection is that of shaking hands."

FEMALE STRAPHANGER HAS DISAPPEARED

(International News Service) ST. LOUIS, Dec. 6.—Although local street cars are still as jammed as ever it is noted that the "straphanger" is disappearing. When a dearth of straps by which the straphanger might "hang" was noted local street car officials were sought out for an explanation. "Short skirts" they said "have eliminated the feminine straphanger. With the girls wearing them so high they just don't dare reach up like that."

"Maybe the long skirt which fashion seems to have decreed for the present season will bring back the feminine straphanger."

Believe They Have Cap-

RobbersARE ACCUSED IN $216,000 HOLDUP

(International News Service)
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Dec. 6.—Three men were under arrest here today as suspects in connection with the $216,000 bank holdup at Columbia, Ind., recently, during which a woman was shot and killed. The men under arrest are Joseph White, Joseph Sarcena and William King.

According to Sheriff Jacob Campbell of Marion, Ind., who arrived at the sheriff's office here today, the men will be viewed by witnesses to the robbery from Columbia. They are expected to arrive here this morning and will be allowed to see the prisoners in an effort to definitely establish their alleged connection with the robbery.

Sheriff Campbell also said that several other witnesses were now en route from Gas City, Ind., to St. Clairsville. They will also face the prisoners, all of whom were arrested during a roundup of suspicious characters in Belmont county.

The Marion sheriff said that reports that a fourth man had been taken into custody were false and that the three who were arrested were brought here shortly after they were taken into custody. Campbell also said that an effort would be made to connect the suspects with a $180,000 Canadian mail train robbery.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—One of four youths who escaped from the Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza was reported shot through the abdomen today in a gun battle with a constable in Bethel township.

County detectives said that one of the boys fired upon Ben Smith, a constable, when he tried to capture them.

The four who escaped last night are Joseph Kupic, 18; John Saraka, 17; William Issett, 17, and Charles Martin, 16. All were captured.

Kupic was the victim of Smith's shot.

No Poor Houses In Sweden After 1931

(International News Service)
STOCKHOLM, Dec. 6.—No poor houses will be allowed in Sweden after 1931 for, by that time, all parishes and municipalities must have their new "Homes for the Aged" ready and thanks to the old age insurance system, which is partly voluntary and partly compulsory, there are relatively few people in the country who need public support.

The public pensions insurance fund, to which everyone over sixteen years of age must contribute at least one dollar per year, is now considerably over $100,000,000 and is one of the largest collections of capital in the country. Out of this fund, everyone over 67 years of age or if permanently disabled, draws a small pension for life.

OPPOSITION TO
IN SENATE BODY

fight the plan on the ground that the treasury can not stand the cut and provide adequately for the Farm Board and meet the export debenture plan written into the tariff bill by the senate.

No Delay In Report
Nevertheless, Sen. Smoot (R) of Utah, chairman of the finance committee, was prepared to report the bill without delay, and Sen. Watson (R) of Indiana, majority leader, predicted its passage before Christmas.

Administration leaders are especially anxious to pass the bill before January 1, since it applies to incomes of this year. Early passage, it is said, will greatly aid the treasury's plan for collection of income taxes. "I believe the tax reduction resolution is more of a political gesture than anything else," said Brookhart. "I agree strongly with the statements made in the house by Rep. Ramseyer of Iowa, when he pointed out that the reduction may bring about a deficit. I particularly agree with him in his statement that its passage might be used to defeat the export debenture plan and deprive the Farm Board of necessary funds."

"If there is to be tax reduction, I do not believe that $90,000,000 should be applied to the corporation tax unless the tax is graduated."

Ramseyer failed in his efforts to arouse the house "Farm Bloc" against the bill. He pointed out that the export debenture plan is estimated to cost $150,000,000 a year, and that the Farm Board may need $300,000,000. The treasury, however, says that the Farm Board will get $200,000,000 next year, even if there is tax reduction.

The direct charge was made in the house by Rep. Rankin (D) of Mississippi that the tax reduction plan was evolved to defeat the export debenture plan. This drew from Rep. Ragon (D) of Arkansas the declaration that "everybody who knows anything knows that the debenture plan hasn't got a chance in the world of becoming law."

The house rallied strongly to the plea of administration leaders to support President Hoover's business drive by tax reduction. The bill being passed by a vote of 282 to 17. Eleven Republicans and six Democrats opposed it.

San Francisco Has Sky-Scraper Church

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 6.—San Francisco's first skyscraper church stands dedicated following impressive ceremonies participated in by high dignitaries of the institution.

Built as part of the twenty-eight story William Taylor hotel, near the Civic center, just off marvelous Market street, the Temple Methodist Episcopal church seats more than 2,000 persons.

The new structure was envisioned by Dr. Walter John Sherman, the pastor. It is now nearing completion. The hotel will be ready for occupancy in January.

Cathedral lines were followed in the construction of the auditorium. Arches and ceiling are of Gothic architecture.

A gymnasium, a social hall, a women's parlor, dressing rooms and a dining hall, the kitchen and a set of offices for church business, are integral parts of the new church plant. A large pipe organ to cost $40,000 will be installed.

Boston Talent To Design New P. O.

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Dec. 6.—Recommendation to the treasury department that the layout and design of the interior of the new federal building in Post Office Square be given to some local firm of architects has been made by the board of directors of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber's board of directors took this position following a study of the joint report of the committee on postal facilities.

Under the present plan, the exterior design of the new building is in the hands of local architects while the interior plans are being worked out in the supervising architect's office in the treasury in Washington.

Danger Lurks Here!

WHERE there are little folks in the home the gas stove may be a formidable hazard. In spite of rigid watchfulness on the part of the mother, the little folks often find their way to the kitchen and fool with the gas valves. Where the burner valves become loose the children find it extremely easy to turn on the fumes. The National Safety Council urges parents to see to it that gas valves are kept comparatively tight at all times. It is not the solution of the problem, of course, but it does help in preventing many tragedies.

Bo-Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

(By Central Press)
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—One of the Art Boys pointed out recently that there's never been a time when the pigment splashes were as well off as they are today, with respect to paints. They can work in colors, scientifically made, which will enable their pictures to endure for centuries.

But how many of them today are worth enduring for centuries? That seems to be always the way. Fate never passes the pie until we have indigestion.

JUNK
The Better Business Bureau comes forth with a warning to visiting shoppers that carloads of junk are unloaded on the public at exorbitant prices through fake jewelry auctions during Christmas season.

But why stress the Christmas season? New York is crowded with phoney auction rooms the year around, and there is no estimating the fortune squandered in these Spider Webs, daily, on artless "art" from soft-soap statuary to cheesy Chippendales. They are biots on the town, but such seems to be the influence welded by auctioneers, with the whisky buffet voices, that they ply their unholy trade unmolested by the guardian of the law.

NO PLACE FOR REST

At varying intervals a bunch of nervous New Yorkers get together and announce that they're out to stifle the city's myriad unnecessary noises at the time in news, the morning and evening chronicles break out in a rash of printers' ink. The health commissioner puts in his two cents worth, committees are formed and some poor, benighted Czechoslovak busboy is arrested and fined for walking to work on Sunday morning with squeaky shoes. Then something real happens to enrage the attention of the editors and the "noise crusade" is unceremoniously shunted down the greased chute that leads to nowhere.

Gotham is a noisy town. Washington Irving bestowed the title, "Gotham," in his day, was the name of a retreat for noisy nit-wits. The years may have dimmed the significance of the monicker, but not the hubbub that originally called it forth.

As a matter of fact, New York never set forth in the prospectus that it was a place of rest for the kids on laddies with frayed nerves. There are other centers less stentorian. Tammany Town claims pre-eminence as the nation's stamping ground; and the day its din disappears it will curl up like a caterpillar on a hot stone.

DAZZLING FIGURES

If figures dazzle you, listen to this: It's going to require 45,500 pieces of furniture to fit out the 2,500 rooms in The New Yorker, Manhattan's newest and (temporarily) largest hotel, which opens in a few weeks. Forty-five tons, or 11,000 pieces, of glass will be used as table and dresser tops. There are sockets for 32,000 electric light bulbs and there will be 87 miles of carpet spread over the 43 floors of the dump.

Ain't nature grand!

YES, OH, WELL!

When the Actors' Equity voted some days ago not to allow Sunday shows in the legitimate theaters, one of the principal speakers against the idea was Eddie Cantor, who is now making what he says is his final appearance in a Broadway legitimate show. Mr. Cantor pleaded that he must have his Sundays off.

And within two days of that epoch-making speech the Worthy Brother was in conference with Jesse Lasky, of Paramount-Famous-Lasky, the purpose of the conference being to arrange the exact terms under which Cantor, next year, will make four appearances a day. Sundays included, in Mr. Lasky's principal movie theaters, for a salary of five figures.

Oh, well!

SOME DEALERS

CUT GAS PRICE

Gas at fifteen cents plus tax! Sounds like a pre-war advertisement, but happens to be the current price of gasoline today, due to a price cutting competition which is on between some dealers.

The fight started when the price was twenty-two cents plus tax. A cut was made to 21 cents and the balance followed. Then the shaving started and the price is now down to 15 cents per gallon, plus the tax of four cents.

No drop has been made in the past three days, but unless the complexion of the argument changes, the motorist may be getting gas for 10 cents, exclusive of the state tax.

Garment Workers Ready For Strike

Thousands Of Garment Workers In Big Cities Of Country To Strike December 31

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Dec. 6.—Strike conduct and additional strike resolutions were expected to be discussed at today's session of the 20th biennial convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union here. The convention has already approved of four strikes in New York, Philadelphia and Cleveland, involving more than 70,000 garment workers. With an objective of eliminating the sweatshop and the establishment of the five-hour day, forty hour week, delegates to the convention yesterday voted strikes among 10,000 children's dressmakers in New York, 10,000 dressmakers in Philadelphia and 5-000 cloak and dressmakers in Cleveland. Authorization of these strikes followed approval of a general strike of 45,000 workers in New York when their agreements expire December 31.

The convention still has resolutions before it on strikes in Boston, Baltimore, Chicago and Toronto.

Dues and good turns were given with Junior Phares having the best good turn of the evening. Each patrol was appointed to a downtown section of New Castle and was told to reproduce it in the form of a map. The Pine Tree patrol was the winner in this contest. An announcement concerning the Indian program, in which the members of the troop will be shown in true Indian fashion, was given by Paul Mackie, who is the instructor of Indian lore in the troop. The meeting was brought to a close

Ornaments Hidden In Harrisburg Basement Recall 1906 "Graft"

Benson E. Taylor, Supplies Secretary Makes Accidental Discovery Of "Cache"

Ornamental Brass And Copper Lighting Fixtures Are Discovered

(International News Service.) HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—Shades of the capitol graft which shook the state more than twenty years ago stalked across the stage Thursday for another turn in the limelight when the startling discovery of tons of abandoned and unused ornamental light fixtures in secret sub-basement compartments was made known by Secretary of Property and Supplies Benson E. Taylor.

Secretary Taylor found the cache when looking for a place through which telephone cables could be run in the sub-basement of the capitol. A state worker told him, when Taylor tried the door of a basement room, that he could not enter as nobody was allowed inside. Taylor persisted, however, and went inside after getting a key. Cashed in the forbidden room were several hundred thousand pounds of highly ornamental bronze and brass fixtures.

Worth About $100,000. As junk alone these fixtures are worth at least $100,000, and the state probably paid several times that amount, it was pointed out, for before the capitol scandal developed in 1906, the Commonwealth paid for bronze by the pound.

William H. Berry, state treasurer, first divulged the graft in 1906 and that year Edwin S. Stuart, during his gubernatorial campaign, promised to prosecute the grafters if he were elected. He was elected and the legislature of 1907 appointed an investigating commission, headed by Senator John S. Fisher, now governor.

It is believed that the tons of fixtures were hidden away in the basement to prevent members of the investigating commission from seeing them. Each piece was shrouded in heavy wrappings but the wrappings were torn away Thursday.

Smile for today. "As gloomy as a hick town seems to a traveling man on a rainy Monday morning."

Mild Winter Is Forecasted

YORK, Pa., Dec. 6.—Jacob W. Neff, 76 years old, of Relay, one of York county's most prominent weather prophets, has made his annual prediction and disputes the claim of the Glen Rock prophets who have promised 16 snows this winter. Neff says there will be but seven. Early in the season Neff said that the winter will be mild. His method of figuring is this: The first snow for the winter occurred on November 24. From that date to the time of the new moon is six days. Including the day of the new moon this means seven snows for the winter. This number less the snow which fell on November 24, leaves six more snows to come.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College School of Agriculture

Improve Dairy Herd—Provide now for a better milk-producing inheritance in your future herd. Get a sire from a line of breeding better than your own.

Prevent Disease Spread—Isolate all birds from the poultry flock as soon as they show symptoms of disease. Then decide what method of treatment to follow.

Attend "Fertile" Week—For three days, December 9 to 11, the Pennsylvania State College will offer the sixth annual Horticulture Week. There will be separate programs on vegetable gardening, fruit growing, and floriculture and ornamental horticulture. These afford opportunities for alert farmers to increase their information and improve their practices.

Provide Ice Supply—A farm ice-house is a valuable asset. Plan now to build such a house and fill it when the first supply of good ice is available.

Feed Dairy Calves—If skim milk is not available for dairy calf feeding, skim milk powder is a satisfactory substitute. Mix one pound of the powder with nine pounds of warm water and feed exactly as skim milk.

Keep Farm Records—Make yourself a Christmas present of a farm account book and in your New Year's resolutions include a plan to run the farm on business principles. Ask your county agent how to start the book-keeping.

Protect Implements—Winter weather is hard on unshowered and unprotected farm machinery. The life of any machine can be prolonged if it stands in a good shed when not in use.

Water House Plants—When watering house plants do it thoroughly in the morning. Use water that will not chill the plants. With aid of a funnel the work may be done with neatness and dispatch.

Buy Roosters Now—Do not delay purchasing male birds if new blood is needed in the breeding flock. Buy a few more than needed, so if any deaths occur, there will be enough birds for use.

Suggest Extra Fee For Special Tags

Pittsburgher Believes Motorists
Would Be Willing To Pay
For Choice Numbers

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—The ambition of motor car owners to possess low-numbered license tags can be turned to the monetary advantage of the Commonwealth, according to a Pittsburgher who wrote Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon of the Motor Vehicles Bureau. He suggests an extra fee for special numbers and declares the annual revenue from this source would exceed $600,000.

"I believe motor car owners who want certain numbers or combinations of numbers will be glad to pay for them," wrote Mr. Eynon's correspondent. "Personally I would pay $100 annually for the No. 1 tag, in addition to the regular fee for my car, making a total of $115.60."

"Not so long ago—and the practice may still continue—the state of Virginia charged $20 for special tags desired by people who go in for that sort of thing. I see no reason why Pennsylvania cannot do likewise. I believe your special tag requests will total 25,000 or 30,000 annually, and were you to charge an extra fee of $25 the additional revenue accruing to the state would range from $625,000 to $750,000. This would mean more money for road building."

Commissioner Eynon is confident that the Pittsburgher's estimate of "low-number fans" is low. He places the total close to 100,000. Before the correspondent's plan can be followed in the issuance of license plates, however, the legislature must amend the Motor Code.

Requests for special numbers begin to reach the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in April and May of each year.

Mexico Believes Morrow Will Not Relinquish Post

(International News Service)
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 6.—Doubt that United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow will relinquish his post here to take over the senatorship from New Jersey was expressed by Foreign Minister Genaro Estrada Thursday.

"I not only do not believe these rumors," he said, "but on the contrary my opinion is that as soon as Mr. Morrow terminates his high mission as delegate to the disarmament conference in London, he will return to occupy his post as ambassador of the United States in our country."

Public Utilities To Spend Billion And More In 1930

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Public utilities of the nation will spend $1,400,000,000 during 1930, an increase of $110,000,000 over the expenditures this year, Matthew S. Sloan, president of the National Electric Light Association, told the National Business Conference Thursday.

The electric utilities alone plan to spend $865,000,000—$65,000,000 above the figures for 1928, he said.

Magistrate Uses Old Prints To Solve Crime

(International News Service)
LORIENT, France, Dec. 6.—Fingerprints and the energy of a country magistrate are about to clear up a murder that took place December 2, 1928, when a well-to-do farmer was murdered near his house here.

Suspicion was cast on various friends of the dead man, and just as the mystery was about to be listed among unsolved crimes, the magistrate learned that a man was seen washing his hands in a water trough near the murdered man's house.

The magistrate thereupon obtained fingerprints of men lately released from the Lorient jail and forwarded them to Paris. Here, in impressions on various objects touched by the murderer, two sets were found to coincide exactly with those of a man who for some time past had been watched by the police.

Boys' Prank Sets Off Some Strange Results

(International News Service)
NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Dec. 6.—Small boys swung on guy wires behind the municipal building here with strange results. Two high tension wires snapped and fell to the ground, railroad trains were stalled over a long stretch of the New Haven railroad, a dozen factories had to shut down and traffic in the city was at a standstill for many minutes while linemen scurried about looking for the trouble.

There is not much hope for women who would rather tie a ribbon on a poodle dog than tickle a baby under the chin.

Tag Demand Has Slumped Terribly

Commissioner Eynon Unable To Understand Falling Off As "Dead Line" Nears

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—The amazing rush with which Pennsylvania early in October made application for their 1930 automobile license plates—a rush which at its beginning led Commissioner Benjamin G. Eynon to wonder whether the Motor Vehicles Bureau would have anything at all to do in December, has ended in a slump surprising even to pessimists at Harrisburg who expect that sort of thing.

If passenger car owners continue to make application for tags at their present rate of 6,282 per day, the last of them will be getting their plates July 27 next. The calculation is very simple. A total of 1,500,000 passenger car owners have not made application. That figure, divided by 6,282, gives 238-plus. The answer indubitably is July 27.

In 1928 car owners exceeded by 1,301 applications daily the mark they are making in 1929.

"I confess my inability to understand their delay," said Commissioner Eynon today. "We have been mailing plates since October 1. The price then was the same as it will be January 1. The average owner had more money than he will have the week after Christmas. There will be no after-Christmas bargain sales of motor vehicles license tags. Nor will there be an extension of time for the use of 1929 plates."

Both Ashbrook, Andrews and Mr. Sutphen of Pittsburgh, a former president of the organization, pointed out to the insurance men what membership in such an organization actually means.

A dinner was served just prior to the meeting.

Westfield Church To Hear Mountaineer

McCoy Franklin, Of Crossnore,
N. C., Will Address The Congregation

The Westfield Presbyterian church will have the opportunity Sunday morning at 11:00 to hear a story of the Carolina mountaineers from the lips of one of the mountaineers.

McCoy Franklin, president of the Crossnore school of Crossnore, N. C., will give an address on his work and the work being done by the school. Mr. Franklin was born in a typical mountaineer's home, the second child in a family of 13, and was not permitted by his father to attend school. He longed for an education and after he was 21 years old he left home and managed a high school course, followed by a course in the seminary. He then returned to his native state and established a school, endeavoring to teach the children, giving them the advantages he was denied.

He is now touring Pennsylvania and telling of the work he is doing among his own people and trying to give the outlook of these mountaineers who are so closed off from the rest of the world. The Crossnore school has finely equipped buildings, including a hospital and through the untiring efforts of Mr. Franklin is progressing. This is purely a missionary work, the school being supported by subscriptions and from money derived from the sale of old clothes which are sent in and then sold to the natives at low cost.

Mr. Franklin is an interesting speaker and is also a whistler of renown, his imitations of birds especially being very natural.

A Message For "Golden Rule Sunday"

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

"Thou shalt love thy neighbor as Thyself."—Leviticus, 19:18

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

Scoffers at religion have charged that Christianity is "other worldly" that the lure of the skies blinds our eyes to the duties at our feet. Our lesson gives us that last of our Lord's discourses dealing with that other world, but it does not by any means direct attention solely to that other world. On the contrary he used it to enforce the most practical of every day social duties of the Christian.

feeding the hungry, housing the homeless, clothing the needy, comforting the sick and visiting the prisoner. He identifies himself with every one of these needy ones and tells us that anything we do for any of them he will appreciate as thoroughly as if the kindness were done to him in his own person: "Verily, I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me." On the other hand, he rebuked those who omitted these deeds of neighborly kindness as though the slight has been given personally to himself: "Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did not unto one of these least, ye did it not unto me." In the millions of outstretched hands a needy world extends appealingly to us we are to see the hands pierced with the nails of the cross; in their myriad needs we are to see as many opportunities to serve our Lord and theirs. Surely, this is not shunting religion off to some other sphere. Rather, it is "going about doing good, even as our Lord has set us the example."

Good Samaritanism
Some one has found in the story of the Good Samaritan three social attitudes as prevalent now as then, and expressed in the phrases, "Beat 'em up," "Pass 'em up" and "Pick 'em up," and illustrated in the conduct of the thieves of the Jericho road, the priest and Levite, who passed by on the other side and the Good Samaritan, who ministered to the man in need: "Had compassion on him, and went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast and brought him to an inn, and took care of him." The Good Samaritan asked no questions regarding the needy man's race or creed, his membership or standing in any order, his identity with any social class. None of these made any difference to him. His spirit of neighborliness bridged all differences. The Good Samaritan did not turn the needy man over to a social agency; he personally cared for his needs. It is so easy to write a check to the Community Chest Fund and think that hereafter we may "pass by on the other side." We must retain the personal touch and heart throb of true neighborliness which refuses to be professionalized or institutionalized.

When James defines "pure religion and undefiled before God the Father" as "Visiting the fatherless and widows in their affliction and keeping oneself unspotted from the world," he is not exalting conduct above creed or deeds above doctrines, but he demands these as the proof of the genuineness of the faith professed, and insists that works be found with faith as fruit with root.

Who is My Neighbor

The ideal Good Samaritan is Jesus. Spiritually he has done for us all the Good Samaritan did for the dying man of the parable and more. For his sake we should make it a matter of joy to be neighbor to any and all, not seeking to exclude any by asking, "Who is my neighbor," but seeking to include all by asking, "To whom else can I be neighbor?" The Golden Rule Foundation, answers his question for all Sunday Schools by designating this Sunday "Golden Rule Sunday," and appealing to every school and church for an offering for the millions of famine-stricken war-torn China who will die of starvation if we "Pass by on the other side."

(The International Uniform Lesson for Dec. 8, is "Helping Neighbors in Need," Matt. 25:31-46; Luke, 10:25-37; James 1:27; 2:14-17, the Golden Text "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Lev. 19:18.)

HIGHLAND MEN ENJOY DINNER

Dr. Homer B. Henderson, Of Grove City, Is Principal Speaker Of Evening

One hundred and fifty men of the Highland U. P. church gathered in the church dining room last evening when the annual anniversary dinner of the Men's Bible class was held.

Dr. Homer Henderson of Grove City was the principal speaker of the evening, delivering a most interesting address which was followed attentively by the men present.

H. S. Christman, president of the class, presided and introduced the toastmaster, Hon. Robert L. Wallace, a member of the class. Mr. Wallace injected quite a little humor into his remarks at the expense of some of the members of the class. A Clyde Shoaff gave a history of the class and its officers since it was founded in 1908. Dr. C. J. Williamson teacher of the class gave a short and interesting talk on birthdays.

A fine menu was prepared and served by the ladies of the church. Pep singing was led by Mr. Christman with John Evans at the piano and Milton Pascoe aiding with the saxophone.

Artists At Old Lyme Free From Mosquitos

(International News Service)

OLD LYME, Conn., Dec. 6.—The artists who gather here in the summer won't be bothered with mosquitoes when they go down to the shore with their canvas, if plans of the town of Old Lyme and Old Saybrook, across the Connecticut river, are carried out. Officials of the two towns will spend $10,000 this winter to ditch and drain the great salt marshes that for generations have been perfect mosquito breeding areas.

Out of 2700 acres in the area Old Lyme has drained 300 acres and Old Saybrook 186 and the rest probably will be cleaned up before the warm weather comes.

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Words cannot explain what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. My mother always kept it in her house for years. She calls it 'the old reliable.' Before my first baby was born she urged me to take it because I was so terribly weak, and I gave it a good trial. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. At one time I had to lie down four or five times a day. I still take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for I feel that it gives me strength to be a good mother to my little family. I will gladly answer letters asking about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

MRS. WILLIAM PARENT
1415 W. 62nd St., Seattle, Washington

"When my little daughter was born, we were living on a homestead way up in northern Alberta, Canada. I had four other children and I worked so hard that I suffered a nervous breakdown. The doctor's tonic didn't seem to help me and when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to take that instead. One day I felt good, the next day I might feel bad but I kept on with the Vegetable Compound until I felt well again. It is a wonderful medicine for it surely brought back my strength. Today I can do anything, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any woman will write to me I will tell her all I can about this medicine."—Mrs. William Parent.

MRS. DELLA HUTSELL
626 E. 1st St., Casper, Wyoming

"Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. For years I suffered, having to lie down frequently and often I felt so weak I could hardly stand up. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little school-girls. I try to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better. My head only bothers me once in a while for which I praise your Vegetable Compound. I am always recommending it to other ladies when we get talking together."—Mrs. Della Huttsell.

GIFTS OF QUALITY For the HOME!

FURNITURE, which does so much to create beauty, harmony and comfort in the life of those to whom it is given, is an ideal solution of the gift problem. As a Christmas gift it is supreme. In some ways, every piece of furniture given to an individual is a gift to the house as a whole, and in its subtle way influences the general environment. It is completely enjoyed by the individual recipient, and yet adorns the home so that the entire family benefits therefrom. Give your daughter a mirror, and the whole room reflects its sparkle to an enchanted family. Give the sister a reading lamp, and its friendly rays illumine the surroundings, adding to the decorative interest so that all may enjoy it. A new chair may be a gift for the father, but its curves and colors contribute a certain distinction that is felt by all. So with any furniture, it may serve a very specific purpose, yet it invariably effects a general improvement, and raises the social prestige—the standards of the family to whom it comes. The gift of furniture brings something besides its intrinsic worth. More freshness and beauty in the home affect the spirit favorably, for with a beautiful background for work, one produces more beautiful thoughts, and consequently performs finer work.

MRS. HOOVER has always plainly indicated her entire lack of interest in society.

MRS. COOLIDGE was a social success. The most adaptable woman who ever presided over the White House.

By ALICE BERNADETTE WALL
Central Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Official mourning for the late Secretary of War, James W. Good, does not mean that all social activity in Washington has been suspended for December.

To be sure, the society columns in the capital's newspapers speak of the season as completely wet blanketed. Underneath a few paragraphs of such decorous expressions, however, there follows, in each instance, a long list of current functions, quite the customary number of references to the winter's flock of "charming debutantes" and fully the average volume of gossip and chit-chat of the pre-holiday period.

White House Events Off

White House events have gone by the board, certainly, including the diplomatic reception (which really is a very colorful affair, on account of the gold braid and tinsel which characterize it). The vice president's dinner to the President and Mrs. Hoover, and the various dinners which cabinet members were to have given, have gone into the discard. The diplomatic corps has called off everything.

These cancellations make a certain amount of difference, undoubtedly, and yet not quite so much as may appear on the face of the formal record.

For instance, the mere fact that the envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary from Dipsonania announces the abandonment of an entertainment on the strength of the month at his legation does not necessarily imply that no such entertainment will be given there. It implies, simply that, if given, it will be unofficial.

An unofficial party does not lend itself as readily to publicity as an official one, but everything else can flow just as freely.

White House mourning would have more of a dampening effect on social Washington if the Hoovers themselves were great society people.

The truth is that they have plainly indicated their entire lack of interest in that kind of thing—not in the White House, this being their first "season" there, but during a long residence in S street, while Mr. Hoover was secretary of commerce. Not that they have been without their own circle of friends, but very few of these friends ever have been society folk.

For that matter, the Coolidges obviously were not originally cut out for the social whirl. Nevertheless, Mr. Coolidge never was the individual to balk at subordinating his own likes and dislikes to the requirements of politics. In his opinion more or less society was one of them; so he made the best of it, and with a pretty good grace, considering what he probably really thought about it.

As for Mrs. Coolidge, perhaps the most adaptable woman who ever presided over the White House, she was a social success just as she was a success under any and all circumstances.

But the Hoovers are not politicians. Lacking, presumably, the political sense of duty to submit to boredom, the indications are that they are inclined to submit to just as little of it as possible.

Mrs. Hoover's definite, though polite, refusal to serve as patroness of the Junior League's charity ball—the very creme de la creme of the capital's younger social set—is generally interpreted as the best evidence of this policy. Never before, since there has been a Junior League, have these exclusive young folk been without the nation's first lady as patroness of their initial function of each season.

Capital Knows Hoovers
Washington knows the Hoovers fairly well. They are not new residents here. Capital society was prepared to hold its own without much White House stimulation during the Californian's administration.

What does fall as more of a wet blanket on the season is the prevailing gloom in army and navy circles. Not generally a wealthy crowd, but an aristocratic one, and brilliant, in its uniforms and clanking cutlery, the army and navy sets always have furnished a snappy background for social Washington. They are here yet, but in low spirits. Professional warriors never are cheerful when disarmament talk fills the atmosphere.

Veteran Ends Life At Legion Post

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 6.—Joseph Preble, 35, of Seventh avenue, prominent veteran of the World war, was found dead in the rooms of the Colonel Joseph H. Thompson post, American Legion, municipal building. He had shot himself through the head. A 32-calibre revolver was found clutched in his right hand. He had been dead for eight hours, Coroner H. C. McCarter reported.

Preble, who was a dental technician, had offices in Philadelphia. He came here a few weeks ago to live with his mother while he took treatment at a government hospital in Pittsburgh. He had suffered from the effects of gas and a wound in his leg, recently. He was despondent because of ill health, his friends say. He leaves his wife, his mother and a sister.

INDIGESTION IS QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA

"This Was The Medicine I Should Have Had In The First Place," Says Coatesville Man.

MR. DANIEL ROCKFORD

"Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place," said Mr. Daniel Rockford, 241 Chestnut street, Coatesville, Pa. "For some time I was in a weak and run-down condition, all the result of indigestion that made meals a source of distress instead of a pleasure. It seemed it was impossible for me to get enough sleep, as I always felt tired. I tried medicine and treatments, one right after the other, but nothing did me the slightest bit of good."

"I started the Konjola treatment, and that was the turning point, for quickly I began to improve. Konjola went right to the source of my troubles, sweeping the poisons from my system, regulating my organs and giving me greater strength and energy. In three weeks I was like a different person, free of all my ailments."

Konjola is sold in New Castle, Pa. at Love & Megown drug store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Steel Industry Will Expend Half Billion

James A. Farrell, President Of Steel Corporation Says Big Expenditures Planned

Steel Industry Is Now Up To 65 To 70 Per cent Of Its Seasonable Output

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation told the National Business Conference Thursday that the steel industry as a whole planned to spend $500,000,000 in 1930 on additions and betterments.
The industry, he said, is now up to 65 to 70 per cent of its seasonable output. With the cooperation that the steel and iron industry has been promised at the conference, the industry expects to have as good a business in 1930 as it has had this year.
"There should be no material decrease in foreign trade and there is much reason to expect an increase to that trade," Farrell asserted.
He said he did not consider the increased commercial activities of other countries as a menace to the United States. Instead, he pointed out, such a development tends to increase the purchasing power of those countries thus affording the United States an opportunity to sell more goods.

With a World of Gifts to choose from they selected FURNITURE

GIFT for the home! What pleasant possibilities, what delightful anticipations! Rare, indeed, is the present that brings so much lasting satisfaction; so much permanent pleasure. And after all, isn't a gift of furniture the most logical, the most enduringly profitable of all investments?
Thus, the saying: "First... furnish the home." is indeed sound counsel. In this modern age you are judged by the appearance of your rooms.

Scanty, inappropriate furnishings do you a real injustice; they give your guests an unfavorable impression that even your most gracious manner and clever conversation cannot offset.
And it is so easy... so simple, to turn this handicap into real help; to make home furnishings speak in your favor. Just a few new pieces, carefully selected, will "dress up" your home and make a world of difference.

How about one or two occasional chairs, to replace those old-fashioned ones that have served their day? A new table, perhaps, or an attractive desk; a cedar chest, or Martha Washington Cabinet; new furnishings for the dining room and breakfast nook; a modern comfortable suite for the spare bedroom.
We proffer friendly, capable counsel. Just come in any time and talk with us about your plans and your problems.

Highway Work Will Be Pushed During Winter

Some Phases Of Activity Are Not Affected By Weather
Eckels States

GRADING WORK TO BE KEPT GOING

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—Highway maintenance men and contractors will have a busy winter, Samuel Eckels, Chief Engineer of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, predicted today. With 647.90 miles of grading and drainage, more than 299 bridges, miles of guard rail and the regular snow removal and cinder activities added to the usual maintenance work it is not likely that time will hang heavily on anyone's hand, he pointed out.

The enormous mileage of grading and drainage includes contracts for that alone and other contracts which include the paving after grading is completed. No time will be lost during the cold months, which prevent satisfactory paving operations but offer only brief delays in the other work. Contractors have been ordered to keep as many men as possible busy throughout the winter, both for the sake of cutting down unemployment and to advance the work as far as possible before the opening of the 1930 paving season.

Much of the bridge work can be carried on despite cold weather, the Chief Engineer said. Many of the contracts for construction include spans of various lengths. Contractors can concentrate on these along with grading operations, and be ready at the first sign of favorable weather in the spring to begin laying pavement. Steel bridges requiring abutments will, in many instances, be carried on in cold weather, simply by watching the thermometer and acting promptly.

Culvert pipes, concrete box culverts and concrete pipe can be placed while grading is under way, advancing the work so much farther toward the paving stage. Contractors also have the advantage of plenty of time to stock up with materials for paving, spotting them where needed.

as the entire length of the newly-graded road is open to them. While surface treatment, commonly referred to as oiling, has been closed down for the present season maintenance men will be busy with patching, repairing shoulders and berms, freshening the road markings and direction signs and overhauling road machinery to meet the heavy work next season. Snow fence has engaged the attention of large forces the last of it going into position this week.

Guard rail and sign erection on newly completed contract is another task assigned to maintenance men. Many contracts were rushed to completion during the fall so that work of this character will be heavy for a while.

Snow removal, while periodic, requires many maintenance men and a quantity of equipment. Meanwhile the engineering staff and forces are running at top speed on plans, drafts, contracts and agreements. The last letting of 1929 has been scheduled for December 19 and 20, making a total of 238.63 miles advertised during this calendar year, as compared with 675.49 in 1928. The department was delayed in starting this work by the session of the General Assembly, whose action was necessary to establish the Department's program for the new biennium.

Faced with the task of building more than 1300 miles of roads by contract the Department forces in a single season, four times the amount that once was considered a "big year" every bureau, section and unit of the Department is pushed to capacity, clearing the preliminaries and getting all in readiness for the opening gun of the 1930 season. Contractors are driving just as hard.

Monastery Grave Gives Up Jewels

(International News Service)
MOSCOW, Dec. 6.—A curiously marked grave is an ancient monastery at Pskoff near the Latvian frontier gave the GPU (secret service police) a clue to a cache of about 200,000 rubles ($100,000) worth of diamonds and other precious stones.

The Mother Superior, Yevsevia, and treasurer, Ludmila, of the monastery were arrested on charges of concealing nationalized church property. They are said to have confessed to picking the jewels out of the ikons in the chapel during the civil war 10 years ago, and to prevent confiscation by the government buried the treasure in a steel box in the cemetery. In order to be able to find the treasure when the Soviet regime came to a supposed end they marked the burial place with an unscrubbed cross. The monastery is now to be turned into a factory.

Women Lawyers Puzzle Wig-Makers

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 6.—Two modern Portia's with long locks, have completely non-plussed London wig-makers.

The ladies of the law look moderately masculine when they have short locks, but long hair cannot be disguised. It takes up room.

William Witts, who makes wigs for an old-fashioned firm, is in a dilemma.

"What am I to do?" he asks. "Two women barristers have ordered wigs, and both have masses of hair. If I make wigs to fit them I shall have to make them so big that they will look like Madame Pompadour when they get into court!"

Plan Extension At Penitentiary

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—Preliminary plans for a new cell block for the Western penitentiary at Rockview to accommodate 256 prisoners were approved by the State Department of Welfare and marks a further step in the program of the department to reduce to a minimum the tendency of prisoners to riot because of overcrowding.

The new cell block represents the first unit of a quadrangle which has been planned and will be of simple design and lighter construction than the large cell block recently completed.

Volant Road Is Open To Traffic

Concrete Now In Use, Although At Volant End Is Not Completed

Volant residents are now able to use the new state highway, completed several weeks ago, the road having been thrown open to light traffic last Saturday, several days in advance of the date set by the state highway department, it was stated this morning.

The approach at the Volant end of the road has not been completed, but machines are able to get onto the road with but little inconvenience. The county is planning to put the approach in shape for the winter, so that motorists will be able to use the entire road.

The Volant road was one of the speediest jobs ever completed in the state, the contract for the route having only been let during the latter part of summer. The contractors had men and materials on the job within a few days after the contract had been awarded and they were able to complete the 3.1-mile stretch in record time.

STORY MOVES BANDIT; LOOT IS RETURNED

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6. — Arthur Kreske, manager of a shoe department here, tells a story about a tender hearted thief, apparently a novice at the game, who broke into the store and took $2.75 after binding Kreske to a chair.

Kreske talked to the robber and his words moved the man who had not eaten in two days to tears and when the manager told him he'd give him a dollar for a meal, the thief returned $1.75, kept $1 and fled.

In Oklahoma a golfer dropped dead on the first tee after making a poor drive. We know a lot of folks who would be more likely to if they didn't.

Grim Reminders Mailed Lowman

Every Day Secretary Lowman Gets Mail Containing Pictures Of Dry Law Victims

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Dec. 6. — Every morning in the mail Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman, in charge of prohibition receives a copy of a picture of Henry Virkula, killed at International Falls, Minn., by a customs agent.

The picture depicts Virkula in his coffin. The gruesome reminder of this incident which attracted national attention is daily mailed from Brooklyn, N. Y. At periodical intervals Lowman also receives a picture of the mother of Arthur Gordon, killed by a customs agent near Plattsburg, N. Y., kneeling at the grave of her son.

Both men were suspected of having violated the customs laws and failed to stop when ordered to do so by customs agents.

HAS 200 DIALECTS ON PHONOGRAPH RECORD

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—Something unique in the way of oddities is the possession of Dr. W. Cabell Great, professor of English at Barnard College, who has a phonographic record of 200 choice morsels of conversation, recorded on the campus of Columbia University.

What makes this news is that every bit of chatter is in a different dialect and the recording only includes a small proportion of the American dialects heard daily on the campus.

One of the needs of the times is to impress on many persons the importance of slowing up at curves.

The ancients knew fish liver would cure rickets, but moderns feel superior because they know why.

SINCLAIR ATTENDS OIL CONVENTION

Virtually 95 per cent of America's eleven-billion-dollar investment in the petroleum industry is represented by members of the American Petroleum Institute, at its Chicago convention. Harry F. Ronald Drinks Coffee

We hope it isn't a secret. Well, we'll tell you anyway. Ronald Colman, of the movies, is an Englishman who drinks coffee. Isn't that less majestic, or something, to the tea-drinking nation? Furthermore (more secrets), he shaves off his mustache when vacationing to escape identity. Here he has it on, therefore he's working.

Finds Fat People Have Shorter Lives

(International News Service)
ST. LOUIS, Dec. 6.—In the opinion of Dr. W. H. Olmstead of the Washington University of Medicine school here, fat people don't live as long as thin people.

Dr. Olmstead said "obesity" is a killing disease. It probably kills as many people as any other. It is one of the main causes of diabetes; it is one of the reasons so many die of heart failure.

The weight can be controlled by balancing the amount of energy expended and the amount of food taken in but it is very difficult to measure the energy used so the diet becomes the more important consideration," the Washington University doctor said.

Making Plans For Conference

Mid Year Efficiency Conference To Be Held January 23

The regular monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Sabbath School association was held at the parlors of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday evening with the president, Robert M. Strickler, Jr., presiding and the following officers and departmental superintendents present:

Mrs. William J. Marshall, county secretary; John W. Owens, adult division superintendent; Howard Cox, young people's division superintendent; J. C. Miner, county treasurer; G. J. O. Davidson, president Ellwood district; P. W. Griffin, Mrs. J. L. Stratton and Rev. J. W. St. Claire, members of the executive committee.

The chief matter under discussion was the coming mid-year efficiency conference which is to be held at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday, January 23, afternoon session, and Christian fellowship dinner in the evening. It was voted to request the state association to send R. Stanley Kendig of Philadelphia, the young people's and Christian education superintendent, to represent the state association.

It was reported that the temperance superintendent, Miss Margaret Walker, had secured copies of "They also had me fooled. They told me—?" a very reliable temperance hand book and sent one to every district temperance superintendent with the suggestion that they see that every Sabbath school in the county received one of these copies for use on temperance Sundays.

Mr. Davidson, the president of Ellwood district, reported that plans were under way to hold an institute in Ellwood City during the month of January and that the speakers would alternate between Butler and Ellwood City.

P. W. Griffin, former president of the Mahoning district, stated that at the last district convention at Enon Valley he had voted to request the county superintendent to change the name of their district from the Mahoning to the Mount Jackson district. This was unanimously endorsed by the executive committee.

Rev. J. W. St. Clair reported good progress in the Christian education work throughout the county and requested that the coming efficiency conference deal very largely with this phase of Sabbath school work.

After a closing prayer by John W. Owens, the meeting adjourned.

Domestic Troubles Are Aired At Court

Orders Are Made By Judges In Desertion And Non-Support Cases Today

Desertion and non-support cases are being heard by Judges R. L. Hildebrand and James A. Chambers at court today.

Testimony in the cases is pretty much all the same; the complainants alleging that their husbands have failed to provide for them and their children. In some cases cruelty is alleged.

In the case of James Campbell, which was heard before Judge Hildebrand, Mr. Campbell was directed to pay his wife Lella Campbell $4 per week and to give bond for the faithful performance of the obligation.

When the case of the common-law wife against William G. Murphy was called, Murphy was directed to answer and a process was awarded for him. In the case of Louis Hoover the defendant was directed to pay his wife Ruth Hoover the sum of $2 per week and to give bond in the sum of $200.

In the case of Mrs. Nancy Macri against Joe Macri, Mr. Macri said they were married in 1920 and that they had lived together until last September. She blamed her husband for drinking. Their last trouble was over a one dollar dress that Mrs. Macri had bought. Her husband she said, quarreled with her for spending the money. The case was still on trial at the time this was written.

In the case of Arthur Harris which was taken up before Judge Chambers, Harris was directed to pay his wife the sum of $10 per week.

In the case of Lloyd Peterson there was considerable difference in the testimony of Mr. and Mrs. Peterson and the case was continued until another witness can be secured.

In the case of Lawrence Montgomery charged with assault and battery and surety of the peace, Mrs. Montgomery pleaded to assault and will be sentenced later. There are a number of other cases to be heard.

Here Is Chance To Get Free Home During The Winter

Elderly Couple On Farm Would Provide Home For Some Person

Mr. and Mrs. James Van Meter are an elderly couple living on a farm of 36 acres about two miles on this side of New Bedford, near Frizzleburg. Mr. Van Meter is crippled, but is able to go about the house. Mrs. Van Meter is in fairly good health.

Mrs. Van Meter who was in city today, said that she had heard that there were poor people in the city who have a hard time getting along. "We will give a good home to either a man or a woman for the winter," said she, "in return for their services in doing the chores about our home."

In the spring, when the farm work opens, we would be able to keep both a man and woman and pay them for the services. The only requirement for a person to get a good home for the winter is that he or she be honest and not addicted to intoxicants.

Any person who would like a good home for the winter should communicate with The News.

Lone Collector Gets Rich Finds In Borneo

One-Man Expedition Of 15 Months Gathers 1700 Botanical Specimens

Not all scientific expeditions are organized as invading armies, with ships and pack animals and a horde of carriers to help with the heavy work.

E. D. Merrill, dean of the University of California college of agriculture, has just published a report on the results of a one-man scientific expedition of fifteen months' duration, through the almost unexplored fastness of the tropical forests of British North Borneo.

This expedition, made by A. D. E. Elmer, was interrupted twice by sickness contracted in the jungle. The work was started in October, 1921, in December, 1921, because of exposure Elmer became too sick to continue. In October, 1922, he returned to the task and remained for six months. At the end of that period he rested for a few weeks and again returned to the task. At the end of a second six months' period in the field he contracted a serious infection, having been fifteen months in the field and having collected 1700 specimens.

In the preface to the classifications of these specimens which he prepared during his spare time, Dean Merrill says: "Borneo is a peculiarly difficult country in which to prosecute biological field work, except in the immediate vicinity of the scattered towns and plantations. Few roads exist and these are limited in extent, while in the vast forested areas even trails are rare. The country is sparsely populated and native settlements are frequently far apart. Transportation is chiefly by water along the coast and the larger rivers. When an expedition is prosecuted under governmental auspices, or with ample private funds, some of the inherent difficulties are obviated. When, however, an individual without governmental backing and with limited funds undertakes botanical explorations in such a country, it is distinct evidence of his courage."

Colorado Record In Mining Safety

No Fatal Accident In 13 Years At Plant Producing 2,475,555 Tons Of Coal

A most interesting more-safety record has been made by the Colorado Fuel & Iron company's Robinson No. 1 mine, located at Walsen, Col., the United States Bureau of Mines points out. J. L. McBrayer has been superintendent of the Robinson No. 1 and 2 mines for the past two and one-half years, and David Muir has been foreman of the Robinson No. 1 mine since June, 1913.

The last fatal accident at Robinson No. 1 mine occurred on July 27, 1915, and the amount of coal produced at this mine since July 28, 1915, has been 2,475,555 tons up to February 21, 1929. In 1928 the Joseph A. Holmes Safety association awarded a Joseph A. Holmes certificate on the following basis: "From July 27, 1915, to March 1, 1928, the Robinson No. 1 mine operated with a single fatal accident, and during that time a total of 2,301,804 tons of coal were mined."

At the March, 1929, meeting of the Joseph A. Holmes Safety association in Washington, D. C., a special certificate was awarded to David Muir, mine foreman of the Robinson No. 1 mine, because of the most excellent safety record of the mine under his direct supervision for so many years. The basis of this 1929 award of the certificate to a person was the fact that investigation indicated that the good record of the mine was in a large measure due to Mr. Muir's own efforts.

'Gate-Crashers' Annoy English Society Folks

But Bishop Who Went To Dinner Uninvited Made Mistake In Date

The London "season" is again in full swing, and the gate-crashers—people who attend functions to which they are not invited—are busy once more.

Hostesses, however, are doing what they can to protect themselves from those well-dressed people who just walk in. The latest idea in this line is the issue of special badges, to be worn by invited guests, who can thus be easily recognized.

Some of the "gate-crashers" are simply young people who are out for an evening's "good time," but there are others who are more sinister. Jewel thieves and other crooks have sometimes reaped a rich harvest at a fashionable gathering where, immaculately dressed, they mingled with the invited guests without arousing suspicion.

But at least one bishop has been among the "gate-crashers." Invited to a certain big dinner at a well-known hotel, he mistook the date and found himself walking in to another function, to which he had not been invited, says London Answers.

Flint Mine Shows Early Civilization

Discovery Is Made In Outskirts Of Vienna By Geologist

(International News Service) VIENNA, Dec. 6.—A prehistoric flint mine, revealing the traces of high cultured race existing about 5000 years ago, has just been discovered in the Vienna suburb, Mauer, by the Austrian geologist and anthropologist, Prof. A. Beyer.

The results of his recent excavations are rather startling. A well developed mine with primitive tools made out of stone and giant staghorns were unearthed as well as several well preserved skeletons, indicating that a thousand years before Tutankhamen this part of Central Europe had also a hitherto unrecognized culture.

There can be no doubt about the fact, according to Prof. Beyer, that the race or tribe, which carried on that prehistoric "mining industry" had a highly developed culture characteristic of domesticated and trading tribes. The extension of the extension of the mine indicates that the stone to be used for striking fire was won in large quantities, probably for "export" purposes. The skeletons show also traits of culture diseases, as caries of the tooth and others.

The tribe establishing that prehistoric commerce and industry was probably shortlived. Other nomad tribes swept down from the east and the north, waged a winning battle, and exterminated miners and their culture.

the seating of any appointee of Gov.
John S. Fisher, of Pennsylvania, named from the "Mellon-Grundy-

Senator-elect William S. Vare (R) of afternoon by Senator Nye (R) of N.

on the Ware-Wilson election contest.
Nye, apparently speaking for the insurgent group, declared that Fisher had been guilty of the same lavish use of money as Vare in Pennsylvania's 1926 election. If Vare could be barred because of those expenditures, Nye added, the Senate could close its doors on any man of like guilt, that Gov.
Fisher might name to the vacancy.

Dunlap Causes Court Sensation

New Castle Man's Query To Agent Cause Of Investigation

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—When W.
H. Dunlap, of New Castle, Pa., a member of a federal jury in session here, asked a prohibition agent if corn sugar would make good fertilizer, he unwittingly caused a short lived sensation in federal court here.
During the trial of a Cambria Co.
case, defense attorney Leonard K.
Kreiger, suddenly made a motion for permission to interrogate prohibition agent James C. Shaw, a government witness, concerning a conversation he had with a juror. All of the jurors with the exception of Dunlap were excused and Shaw put on the stand.
Shaw admitted talking to a stranger during a recess but failed to identify Dunlap as the man. Dunlap, on the stand, admitted that he had interrogated the agent but only to ask about the usefulness of corn sugar as fertilizer. After establishing the fact, the other jurors were then called and the case resumed.

Governor Fisher To Act Promptly

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—"I do not believe that I will name any one this week."

This was Governor John S. Fisher's comment today when informed that the senate had barred from its midst
William Scott Vare, Philadelphia Republican leader, by a vote of 58 to 22.
"I hope to be able to act very promptly," the governor said when queried regarding the identity of his appointee, "but I want to counsel and take thought with prominent citizens over the state."

Governor Fisher leaves for Reading tonight to remain over the week-end.

Wife Didn't Like Pittsburgh, Given Divorce In Court

Woman Spends One Day In Pittsburgh And Leaves Mate;
Goes Back To Home In Erie

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Dec. 6.—Harry Morrow Hopkins, whose wife, Mrs. Mary Robinson Hopkins, 32, of Erie, Pa., refused to live in Pittsburgh, he testified, has been granted a divorce here in common pleas court by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen. Hopkins charged desertion after they had been married less than three months.

His wife, a telephone operator when he married her in Ripley, N. Y., June 4, 1927, refused to come to Pittsburgh to live, Hopkins said, after he had been transferred as a manufacturer's representative to Pittsburgh. He visited her in her Erie home over the week-ends and finally persuaded her to come here, he testified. She did come in August, 1927, but stayed only one day and declared she would not live here. He has not seen her since, Hopkins testified.

Test Out Bank Burglar Alarms

A special test of the bank alarm system, which is connected with the police station, took place this morning. This was to be determined whether or not the systems were working properly and just how long it would take the police to answer such an alarm. While this is done at intervals, the move this morning was the result of recent holdups in and about the city.

Bill Would Grant Local Woman Pension

Congressman Swick Introduces Number Of Measures In Congress

(Special To The News)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—
Congressman J. Howard Swick has introduced into the house bills, to grant a pension of $50 per month to Mrs. Elizabeth McConahy, R. F. D.
333, New Castle, and to correct the military record of Francis J. Moore of Beaver Falls.
Mrs. McConahy is the widow of William James McConahy, who served in Company G of the 78th Pennsylvania Infantry in the Civil War.
Asks $1,900 Restitution
The congressman has also introduced a resolution asking for the restitution of $1,900 to the Midland
Barge company of Midland.
The company had a contract to build four ships for the United States Engineers Corps for delivery at Vicksburg, Mississippi, with a provision of a penalty of $100 from the net cost for every day's delay past the time originally set for delivery.

The ships were delivered 19 days late, but the company claims that the delay was due to the ice and general river conditions on the Mississippi as well as the break down of the tow boat employed in delivery, and for this reason asks that the government pay the $1,900 that was deducted as penalty.

Look Out for This, Santa!

A GLANCE at statistics gathered by the National Safety Council during recent years reveals the fact that good old Santa Claus has singled his whiskers in a great many Christmas celebration fires. Several homes were completely wiped out last year on Christmas Day. The use of lighted candles on Christmas trees should never be permitted. Also it is extremely dangerous to use flammable material in decorating. Short circuits in Christmas tree wiring also often lead to fires and resultant tragedy. Just as soon as the holiday celebration is over get rid of your Christmas tree. When the tree is dry it is just as flammable as paper and invites tragedy as long as it is kept around the house.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Teach Child Not To Go Into Street

Scores of little children in this country every day have their lives crushed out in the street.

Practically all of them could be saved. No reason why the child should ever step into the street or cross it alone until several weeks before he enters school.

Some homes have well fenced yards for little children with safe and happy places to play. But most children have no such protection. A few have parents who devote hours and hours to the toddler or employ others to keep him out of the street. A child so guarded usually gets an inordinate amount of attention and fails to learn independence. An occasional parent trains the baby as soon as he begins to walk to keep himself out of the street.

Suppose you wish to teach a toddler always to stay out of the street. The first time he is exposed to the curb, go with him. See that he has such toys as a cart or wagon he can play with near the curb. Give him the opportunity to step into the street. Let him alone. Then instantly, just as if he had stepped upon an electric button, give him a good spanking, right then and there. If you carry him to the house it will be to late.

Don't try to keep him from the street by holding him. Let him keep himself from the street. He will do so when stepping off the curb always means immediate pain. Your temptation will be to seize him the second time he is about to step off, merely keeping him safe. If you are going to do that, why spank him in the first place? You are not interested in keeping him out of the street merely while you are there.

If you want to get quick results let him always choose. Never interfere until the moment when one foot is off the curb. Then let him get immediate pain so as to make this choice of his painful. Pretty soon merely stepping off the curb itself becomes painful enough to cause the child to keep himself out of the street.

Make no elaborate explanations. Merely say casually, "A car might hurt you if you go into the street." Don't enlarge upon the dangers. Don't make it an emotional matter. Be as much like a machine as possible. Be on hand always until you are pretty sure the child is safe by the street alone. Then don't be too optimistic thereafter.

I have tried this with my children. It works. I took just three spankings to teach my youngest lad to stay out of the street for nine months when he ventured out once, and again one more good sound spanking was necessary until he was five. Nevertheless, other little children all around him frequently ran out into the street, and often rode into it on their sleds and tricycles from the drive. I know numerous other parents who have followed this program with like results.

If you consider your little child's life precious you just won't allow him to ride out into the street on his sled or wagon or tricycle. Not one out of a thousand children will be permanently taught to avoid such dangers by reasoning with them, nor by being watched. The surest way is to put into their nervous system an automatic connection of immediate pain with such dangerous activity.

Once the child can walk freely, take him with you across the street at the proper place, observing due caution. At the age of four or five he will be interested in seeing you across the street.

Several weeks before he enters school let him cross the street alone at intersection, you standing by to guide him and to approve heartily his correct procedure.

Blood Transfusions Aid In Gas Poisoning

(International News Service)

VIENNA Dec. 6.—Even hopeless cases of gas poisoning might be cured by blood transfusion according to Dr. V. Voithenberg, writing in a Viennese medical journal. He observed on several victims of severe poisoning due to carbonic oxide gas that a transfusion of about 400 c. c. of blood resulted in an immediate improvement when other treatment failed completely. The consciousness of the patients returned and they recovered within a short time.

The explanation of these results is, that the healthy blood corpuscles which are introduced in the body of the patients assume at once their function of binding oxygen which effects recovery.

This observation and advice seems to be the more important because poisoning by gas has in recent times become exceedingly frequent.

Two Doe Shooters Given Heavy Fines

FARRELL, Pa., Dec. 6.—Carr R. Hirsch, member of the Carnegie Steel company's police department, and George Stauch are being held today in the Clarion county jail after having pleaded guilty to the charge of shooting dogs. Both were fined $300 and $15 costs.

Poor Directors At Mercer Besieged

Cold Snap Brings Increased Demand For Relief From Poor Of County

MERCER, Pa., Dec. 6.—Demand for outside help from the directors of the poor in this county has almost doubled during the cold weather of the past week.

The winter may look promising for the coal and gas man, but its early arrival and predicted long stay makes it one of dread for the poor. Mills closing down in the industrial towns has added to the general distress.

Directors John Griffith and Harvey McCain report increases of a very substantial nature. They divide the industrial towns between them. Director McDowell has the eastern portion of the county. As yet there have been no sudden increases here, he says.

The home will be filled long before winter gets comfortably under way, the directors say. With the new hospital room for 140 people is provided. The attendance record will reach this total, with a lengthy waiting list, the directors say.

MEASLES EPIDEMIC RAGES Just now there is an epidemic of measles in Mercer county. Nearly 500 cases are reported. The condition is what might be expected, says Dr. S. J. Dickey, the county medical director.

Measles recur in cycles of five years, announces the doctor. His health chart shows that it is our turn this year to have them. Next year it will be either scarlet fever or mumps, always something, states the doctor.

NO RUSH TO PAY TAX Despite the fact that after January 1st of 1930 a penalty of one per cent each month will be added to all delinquent taxes the returns in tax money here at the office of the treasurer show no increase over the average sum of the total paid at this time of the year.

The law not only provides that this increase may be levied on taxes, but it also makes it possible to file liens on real estate earlier than before. Sale of all real estate on which tax is not paid is scheduled under this act to take place the first Monday of August on the year following. From present indications in Mercer county a lot of property will come under the hammer if the tax payments are not accelerated.

DEATH CALLS RESIDENT Mrs. Crosby Richards, colored, 82, died last night. She has been ill for a long period of time. Her aged husband, two sons, LeRoy, at home, and Ralph, in Farrell; one daughter, Mrs. Henderson, of Cleveland, survive her. The family have lived here for half a century and enjoyed the respect of the community. The funeral takes place Saturday at two p. m. from the home.

RECORD ESTABLISHED The sale of hunters' licenses for 1929 is over. With the date of December 15th all game will be out of season. The purchase of non-resident hunters' licenses at the office of the treasurer, totaling 223, establishes a state record.

Resident licenses to the number of 7,296 were sold during the year. The number is in excess of 1928, when a change in game laws reduced the number of licenses sold here, but it fails to top records established before the change of law.

COURT TO END The November court will end this week, it is said today by court officials. After the action at bar there are two cases for hearing, one of the pair likely to be settled.

In hearing now is the damage suit of George and Gerald Haun, farmers, suing the county to recover for the building of a concrete road through their farm.

The viewers awarded $1,500. The case is an appeal from the return of the viewers.

STUDENTS IN COURT Students of the Fredonia vocational school visited the common pleas court session today.

Prince Turned Down Job In Provinces

(International News Service)
LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Duke of Gloucester, third son of the Duke of Gloucester, has turned down all romantic ideas about being the governor general of some of the obscure dominions of the British empire. He prefers to do a bit of honest-to-goodness soldiering with his own regiment, the smart and snappy 10th Hussars.

The duke is the most fashionable cavalry regiment and one of the few that has escaped the pruning process which modern conditions have caused. They are now somewhere in India, playing at polo, interspersed with a spot of soldiering—not too exacting!

The duke is a captain, second in command of a cavalry squadron. For that he draws $4 a day with about another $1.50 groom and horse allowance.

Four Deaths Found To Be Accidental

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 6.—No one was held responsible at inquests conducted here into four accidental deaths. Three lives were claimed when the automobile of Walter Zafrain was sideswiped by a machine driven by Sam Marcus of Pittsburgh and then crashed into the car of Gerald Martin of this city. Those killed were Mr. and Mrs. Zafrain and August Skirwlo, who was driving. Seven little children were made orphans. It was foggy and the vision of all the drivers was obscured.

James Enos, 21, was fatally injured when his motorcycle crashed into the automobile of J. W. Paxton of this city. Paxton was exonerated of blame.

Pie Eating Buck Bagged By Cook

HAZLETON, Pa., Dec. 6.—George Sheppard of this city, employed as cook at the "Rattlesnake Inn" a hunting lodge near Mt. Yeager in the Poconos, has the distinction of killing a deer in a most unique manner, according to word received from the camp. He had just baked a pie and placed it on the outside of a cabin window to cool. A few minutes later a buck, weighing 165 pounds, appeared and was about ready to sample the pastry when Sheppard dashed out and struck the animal on the forehead with a large cleaver, causing instant death.

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 6.—At the regular monthly meeting of the Ellwood City Borough council which took place Tuesday evening in the city hall, the council, after some deliberation, voted to raise the salary of the Burgess from $70 to $100 per month. A vote by roll call was taken and all voted in favor with the exception of two, and the motion carried. The ordinance was presented creating this new salary, and was passed on first and final reading by suspension of the rules and regulations of council.

Another feature of the business session was the presentation of the option drawn up between the Borough of Ellwood City and the Shelby Land company regarding the electric light system in Fifth ward, which was formerly Ewing Park. The system will cost $11,800.35 and a fire alarm system, which has been installed by the Shelby company will be sold to the borough for $1,000. In event the City takes over the alarm system, the wiring will have to be changed from the Shelby fire department to the local fire station. The Council authorized the Borough Manager to sign the agreement, a preliminary to the purchase of the system and alarm at a later date.

It was decided that the new members of Council would be welcomed in at an adjourned meeting taking place December 19. The new members are: Second Ward, Thomas Rocco; Third Ward, Gail Morrison; Fifth Ward, M. A. Riley and Ed McDanel. Next year will be the first representation in Council of members of the Fifth Ward, which has been taken into the Borough recently. Business for 1929 will be finished at the adjourned meeting.

"The Dream Of A Clown"
Results In A Succession
Of Laughs At Impersonations

Legion Drum Corps And High School Orchestra Add
Much To Success
Of Play

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 6.—A clown came out before the footlights—he stretched—the audience felt like doing so sympathetically—he yawned—and several in the audience caught themselves starting in—then he finally fell asleep, after removing both shoes and disclosing shockingly holy hose. His dream burst upon the audience in a succession of screamingly funny incidents.

Since there were 70 business men in the cast, all cannot be mentioned, but each man did his bit toward making the ultimate whole an unequalled success. The ballet of six dainty little girls was especially funny, and Miss Fish and Mr. Tarter contributed a clever bit. And the clown slept on.

Came an intermission with two numbers rendered by the high school orchestra, followed by a snappy exhibition of catchy drum beats and drilling and bugling by the American Legion bugle and drum corps. They filled the hall with martial airs—and still the clown slept on.

The wedding party then proceeded to arrive, each "lady" funnier than the last, and each doing a stunt. The mischief makers, in the forms of the bride's young brothers, were cute, and carried on with the twins cleverly. Alfred E. Smith and Mrs. Smith were both good impersonations and deserve special mention; Miss 1840 appeared in hoops and sang of old-fashioned whoopie. Miss 1829 made a fetching girl and sang and danced the Charleston. Her bit later with the Prince of Wales contributed greatly to the success of the show.

President and Mrs. Hoover were a stately couple and so impressive were they that one felt like rising upon their approach. Pola Negri was gorgeous with a large butterfly tattooed upon her fair back. One of the best bits was Abbie Goldberg, one of the guests, who commented freely upon all and sundry, much to the amusement of the audience. As a society note we might mention that Mrs. Herbert Hoover was resplendent in an orchid shaded chiffon evening gown and looked very matronly. The page who announced the guests one by one was a snappy portrayal making a successful connecting link between the various guests. Madam Pierette, slim, but still possessing that quality, sang and danced in a creditable manner. Charles Lindbergh and Colonel William Mitchell made handsome figures in uniform and Madame Schumann Heink, a large woman, stood and opened her ruby lips, and lo, the charming voice of Adele Eggers Purmish issued forth.

Both got a big hand. And so on with innumerable clever impersonations, which made up the prelude to the bridal party, which came slowly down the aisle, ushers, ring-bearer, flower girls and all, and lastly, a sight that was well worth waiting for, the bride, all dolled up in tulle, on the arm of the mystery groom, who turned out to be Bob Farrell. The bride, while displaying a rather experienced visage, also had a very shapely calf, and was highly successful. And the clown slept on. Colonel and Mrs. James Dinwiddie were another couple worthy of mention, and Fiske O'Hara sang "Oh Promise Me". In fact, to be brief, the play is well worth seeing, and many of the "girls" will not be recognized without consulting the program.

Mrs. Davidson Is Hostess At Tea

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Carl Davidson of Park avenue entertained 28 friends at a tea-bridge Thursday evening. A light menu was served at five o'clock by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Charles Ross, Mrs. Laren Springer and Charlotte Davidson.

Decorations were roses and chrysanthemums. The evening hours passed pleasantly with seven tables of bridge in play and resulted in Mrs. Edwin Zehner Jr. of Zellenople, Mrs. Harold Seidel and Mrs. A. A. Campbell winning high score honors.

Women And Choir To Visit Home

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 6.—Members of the Women's Missionary Society together with the Trinity Lutheran choir will drive to Rochester Sunday afternoon to conduct the chapel hour of the Epileptic home there. They plan to drive directly to the chapel which is situated at the rear of the cottages.

Anyone wishing to visit the home and having no transportation are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Lee Whitmore, Mrs. A. J. Dambach, Mrs. Fred Melzer or Mrs. Herman Fleischer.

THE PRATTLER

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 6.—And now little children of the radio audience we will transfer you to the Shelby auditorium where you will hear 70 playful business men frolic through the "Dream of a Clown" to help the Women's club raise money for a Community home.

With apologies to their contemporary, Charles Cox for this column, we state here and now that he cut out capers as Frappe Flapper last night and C. L. Bauder ran him a close second.

Charlie looked so much like his sister that it was a distinct shock to see him puffing contentedly upon a big black cigar after the last curtain had been rung down.

Another feature of the performance was that one wondered how so many of the men learned to play a saxophone since the show went into rehearsal until the mystery was cleared when Abbie Goldberg forgot to blow and the music still came from the wings.

Gus Epler as Aunt Mabel Henderson was a dish for the gods and Joe Smith brought down a rather skeptical house in the opening act when he warbled a tremendous falsetto to Ray Humphrey's baritone. An unexpected bit occurred here are told when during the wedding ceremony the Bishop asked "Is there any just reason why these two souls should not wed?" and one of the girls of the chorus came forth with a bundle in her arms and quaveringly inquired of the groom, "Are you the father of my Cheeldie?"

But the entire play was almost ruined when the nurse came trundling in Dr. Skole in a baby carriage and the wheel came off. Nothing daunted Abbie Goldberg assisted in replacing that digit and the plot went merrily on. And now boys and girls this concludes our brief appearance on the air and we bid you good night.

Senate Elections Committee Also To Declare That Wilson Was Not Winner

SPECULATE OVER SENATOR VACANCY

Governor Fisher Must Appoint New Senator From Pennsylvania; Grundy Mentioned

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—The three-year uphill battle of William S. Vare, Republican boss of Philadelphia, to win a seat in the United States senate on the strength of his overwhelming victory in 1926, will come to a belated close at noon today with that body finally barring him on charges of excessive expenditures, fraud and corruption.

With Vare barred, the senate will immediately create a vacancy in Pennsylvania's senatorial representation by likewise excluding William B. Wilson, wartime secretary of labor, who contested the Philadelphia's official election. This will give Pennsylvania an opportunity to have two senators in the senate for the first time since March 4, 1927, through appointment of a temporary senator by Governor John S. Fisher.

Grundy Mentioned.

The result in the Vare and Wilson cases was so certain that interest centered upon the possible identity of the new senator. Rumors persisted Governor Fisher would tender the appointment of Joseph R. Grundy, the so-called "grand-daddy of all lobbyists", but that the veteran manufacturer and political financier would decline.

With Grundy out of the way, speculation revolved around the names of Robert Von Moschizker, now chief justice of the Pennsylvania state supreme court; George J. Graham, Philadelphia congressman and chairman of the house judiciary committee; Henry P. Fletcher, former ambassador to Italy; Owen P. Roberts, famous government oil counsel, and former Senator George Wharton Pepper.

Ballooning on Vare and Wilson will start at noon, under a unanimous consent agreement. Vare will know his fate first, with the senate acting first on the Norris resolution, declaring him not entitled to a seat in the senate.

Senator Blease Holding Ground

Senator Blease, South Carolina Faced With Contempt Of Court Proceedings

REFUSES TO APPEAR BEFORE GRAND JURY

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Senator Cole L. Blease (D) South Carolina, was holding his ground today while Justice Peyton Gordon, District Supreme Court, was deciding whether contempt proceedings should be placed against him.

Blease is ignoring a subpoena to appear before the grand jury as a witness in a new inquiry concerning the mysterious death a few years ago of Detective Arthur Scrivener. Justice Gordon is the jurist who sentenced three local reporters to jail for refusing to divulge confidential information to the jury. Their 45-day term with a few days off for good conduct, ends Wednesday.

Blease-Heflin Involved
Blease and Senator Heflin (D) Alabama, have declared in senate speeches they have heard the name of Scrivener's murderer and criticized the police department's handling of the case. Heflin was subpoenaed and subsequently ignored it, too, but Blease was the only one cited to the court.

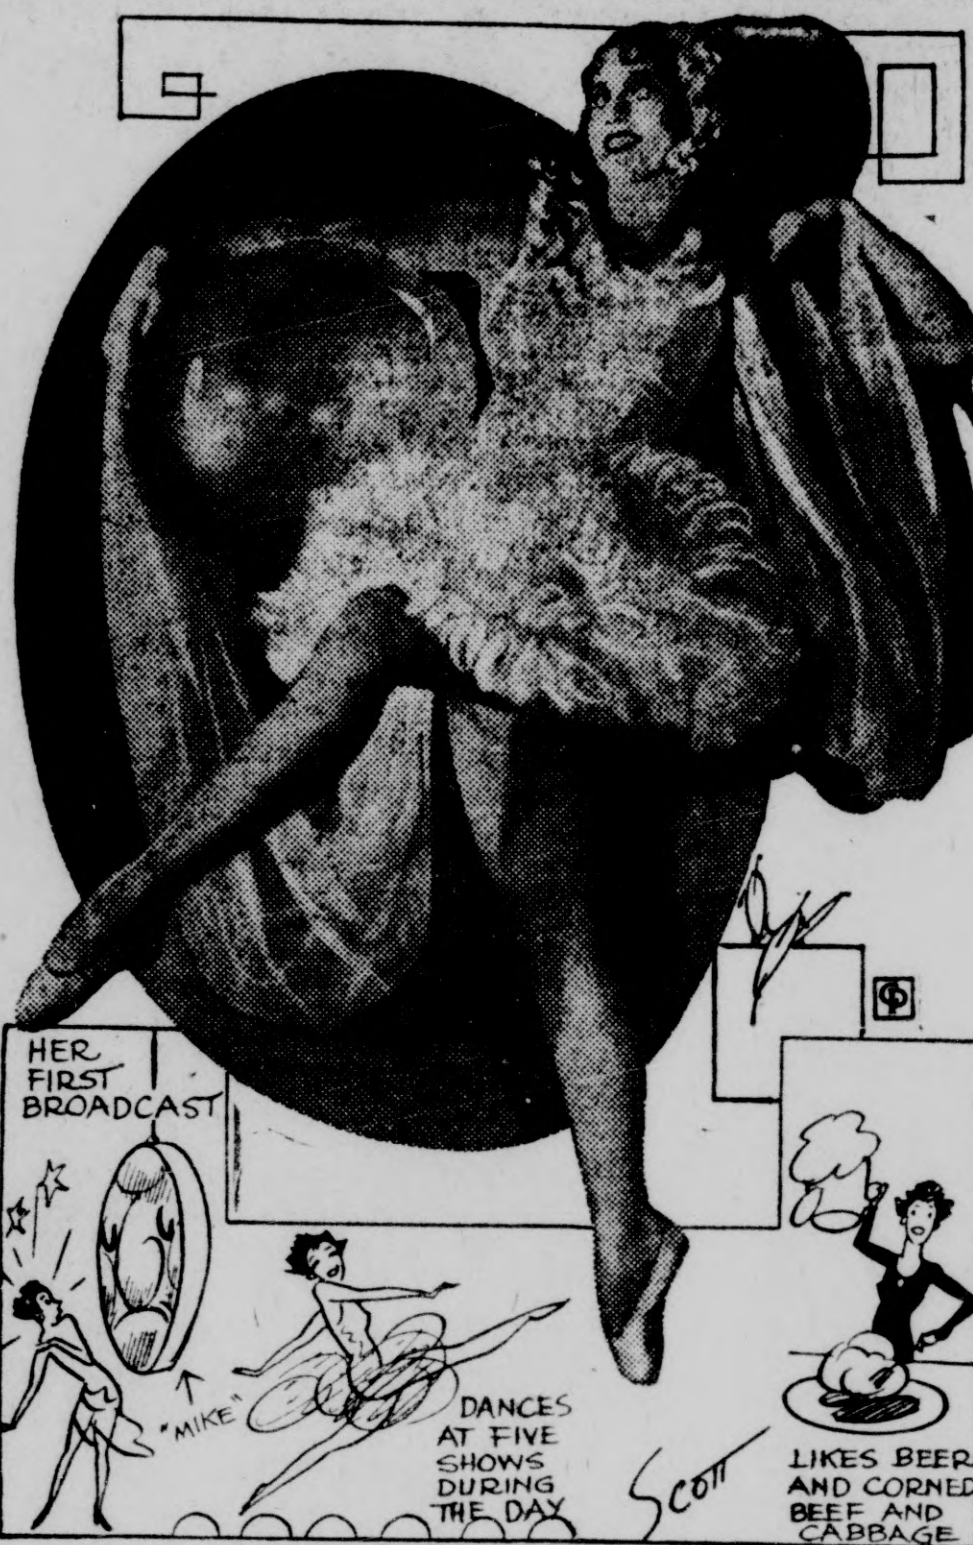

The South Carolinian stated he will not appear before the jury while Heflin declared he might appear later. Blease intimated it would be "useless" pointing to the jury's recent action in throwing out evidence in a similar case.

Blease said he is standing on his senatorial rights. A section of the Constitution declares members of congress, except in cases of treason, felony or breach of the peace, are privileged from arrest during sessions of congress, and are immune from outside questioning on speeches they make in congress.

The New York judge who sentenced a man to jail because he was lazy probably merely sent him up for a stretch.—The Altoona Mirror.

Dances Into Radio

Youthful Patricia Bowman Turns From Ballet To Broadcasting

PATRICIA BOWMAN

By Central Press NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—The ball-erina of radio!

That's Patricia Bowman, 19-year-old devotee of dance, who is now making an appeal with her wistful voice to the unseen thousands of radio listeners-in.

Patricia Bowman loves her dancing—but she's almost as certain that she'll love radio even as much.

A Nervous Debut
"I was so thrilled the very first time I sang before the microphone," she said. "Thrilled and nervous! I never never was so nervous in all my life. My knees started to shake, and all I could see was that black thing in front of me that kept getting bigger and bigger while my voice seemed to get weaker and weaker. But it was a great experience—and I want to do it often."

"I was so afraid my radio debut would be a failure. You see, I had tried so hard, studied voice and training myself to sing—when all my life I've done nothing but dance. And then when I was told that my voice was quite all right for radio—I just took a deep breath, said 'Here goes,' and plunged in."

"But, you know, everybody was nice to me. I got some of the nicest letters since I broadcasted that I really feel quite happy over it all."

"Honestly," she exclaimed, exuberantly, "I never dreamt four years ago, when I was dancing in the 'Scandals,' that I'd ever reach the point where I'd be ballerina in a big theatre—and study voice culture so that I could go on the air. It seems so wonderful!"

now, that I never seem to have time to pick out one and say he's my beau. I suppose I will, when I get old, say around 25 or so. Right now, I'm really awfully busy. I rehearse in the morning, dance at five shows during the day, broadcast, study, and when I'm through I just feel like going home."

Red-Headed
Patricia Bowman is red headed, but insists that her hair doesn't denote her temperament. Her parents are of English-Irish stock, and she was born in Washington, D. C. Patricia doesn't like movies, despite the fact that the box office dollars of countless movie patrons have been responsible for her success and salary. She's just 19, and is still decidedly a kid with grown-up mannerisms that emphasize her youth all the more. She hates to smoke, but loves beer. And ten minutes after you know her, you're already calling her "Patsy."

HURT BY FALL ON ICY STEPS

Mrs. H. C. Turner of 1109 West Washington street, was badly but not seriously hurt Monday morning when she went out to feed the chickens and fell on the icy steps. It was at first feared she had broken her hip but upon further examination it was found there were no bones broken but she was badly bruised about the hips and chest. She suffered a great deal of pain for a few days but to day is resting easier.

Mrs. Turner is celebrating her 70th birthday anniversary today.

Prayer In Congress

The Chaplain, Rev. Dr. ZeBarney Thorne Phillips, of the city of Washington, offered the following prayer: "Almighty God and Heavenly Father, who art the foundation of life and light, who turnest the shadow of death into the morning, make us deeply conscious of Thy presence here and now, in the return of this hour when duty, that stern daughter of Thy voice, calls us again to counsel for the Nation's weal. Bless all in authority in our beloved land. Make these Thy servants glad with the gladness that is strength, giving them patience and wisdom from on high for the work whereunto Thou hast called them."

Light up this scene about us with gleams from the unseen as we pause in reverent silence to pay tribute to the noble comrade whose finely centered soul no foolish pride or selfish care could ever disturb, and bind us ever closer with the cords of love into a corporate fellowship.

Bless us to the end with the vision of the single eye, with continual fresh blossoms of growth and fresh fruits of trial bravely borne for the sake of Him, the perfect flower and fruitage of our race, Jesus Christ Thy Son our Lord. Amen.

Bureau Of Soils Has Big Acreage In State Surveyed

742 Square Miles Completed During Past Year As Aid To Farmers Of Pennsylvania

WASHINGTON, D. C. Dec. 6.—On the last day of the 1929 fiscal year, 17,645 square miles of Pennsylvania area, comprising 11,292,800 acres, had been surveyed and mapped by the bureau of chemistry and soils, the chief of the bureau states in his annual report. Of the total Pennsylvania area surveyed and mapped, 742 square miles were completed during the last fiscal year.

The bureau expects ultimately to survey and map the entire State. Soil mapping has been found to be of considerable value to the farmer in advising him of the fertility and possibilities of irrigation of specific tracts of land, as well as to subdividers of land.

In addition to the extension of soil mapping, there are many ways in which the soil survey has been of inestimable value. The use of it has saved large sums of money and furnished information for the location of substations, the extension and development of certain crops, and the study of soil erosion.

During the past fiscal year soil-survey work was carried on in 72 separate areas distributed over 28 states. By this policy of wide distribution of projects each year there is presented an opportunity for studying soils under a wide variety of conditions and thereby extending the knowledge of the more important soil regions of the country.

PARTS ARE ASSIGNED FOR OBERAMMERGAU

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Now that the parts have been assigned for the Passion Play of 1930, Professor Zeno Diemer, himself an Oberammergau, has been entrusted with the task of restoring the incidental music to its traditional form, from which it has somewhat departed in the last decades. Rehearsals for the play will begin in December. As a result of the technical improvements in the new theatre, it will be possible to shorten the time of presentation considerably.

BOY SCOUT LASSOES FLYING BALD EAGLE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 6.—Kenneth Jackson, 16-year-old Boy Scout, can toss a lasso with a skill that would make a movie cowboy green with envy. Recently on a trip the boy spied a huge bald eagle within range. He shot out his loop, dropped it over the bird and made it fast. He had to wait for some time for the bird to tire before he could capture it.

TYDOL GASOLINE and VEEDOL MOTOR OIL

Eighteen hours of the most difficult and hazardous flying ever undertaken...

But not a miss in their motors.

Climbing desperately up the slopes of glaciers—tossed by gusts of winds from mountains of ice... up-up-up 11,500 feet to the frozen polar plateau.

But not a miss in a motor.

"It was an awful looking place... a wicked place for an airplane to be."

Motor failure meant... better not think about it.

VEEDOL Motor Oil and TYDOL Aviation Gasoline brought them safely through.

The Byrd Expedition also took a supply of Hi-test TYDOL to the Antarctic.

What more convincing evidence for car owners that Hi-test TYDOL, Tide Water's great, green, motor car gasoline, and VEEDOL Motor Oil are the ideal combination for winter!

Hi-test TYDOL gives instant starting and quick acceleration. These are the qualities of a high-test gas.

Before the South Pole Flight we radioed: "How are Hi-test TYDOL and VEEDOL Motor Oil performing?" Back came this reply from Little America:

"Hi-test TYDOL starts immediately, even down here. VEEDOL Motor Oil also giving splendid results."

Fill up your tank with Hi-test TYDOL. Drain and refill your crankcase with VEEDOL, and be... "Ready to Go at 10° Below."

Bo-Broadway by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—With Alec Woolcott, literature, doing his Town Crier stuff on the radio for Somebody's Radio Company—with Hey, Broun, the modern Dean Not-So-Swift of Journalism, homing in on the sacred corridors of the Bankers' Club. Again I was in quest of smelts and Emil.

Dever splied me as I walked from the elevator and without a word on my part advised me that the eminent advertising man had not as yet arrived and would be seated until he have in sight.

They say a man with a good memory should have a strong chin. Dever has a strong chin.

There are between 1,000 and 1,200 persons entering and leaving the club daily. One of Dever's duties is to stand within the portico of the coat-room to welcome the coming and speed the parting guest. Alexander qualifies in every detail for his job as swank club attendant. He is not as handsome as a handsome man.

He is neither as dignified as a Supreme Court Justice nor as benevolently effusive as a professional philanthropist at a Christmas party. There is a thin, blue line between the two that Brother Dever treads by instinct.

A month ago the author of these lines invaded the sacred precincts of The Bankers Club for the purpose of examining some of the projected caravansaries. Blueprints and architects' drawings may be all right for some folk, but not for Lucius. He's hired a floor in a building on 45th street and over a space of 6,500 feet is having erected exact duplications, on a smaller scale, of practically every important structural unit of the new inn. These will be fitted together and then Old Man Boomer will stand off and take a squint at the ensemble. Anything he doesn't like will be corrected before it's too late.

Another section of the floor space will be a pragmatic stratum where interior decorators, artists and others will work out the color scheme of the new hostelry. Entire rooms will be reproduced and destroyed until the complete equipment receives a verdict of "not guilty" from the jury that is to decide how the hotel is to be presented to the public.

The cost of this experimental work will be $200,000.

Hang the expense. Bring on another herring!

WHAT? TRY IT!

Keating, the magician, now a member of The Lambs, appeared before The Flock the other night to mystify them with his really remarkable legend. Naturally he did his famous disappearing canary trick. First there's the canary in a cage and then there's nothing. Bird and cage simply disappear, that's all.

Next day Keating was thinking of resigning from the club because George Nash said he could do the same trick with an ostrich.

LET'S BE AMUSED BY BRIDGET

Bridget Farry, chambermaid in the Park Central hotel at the time Arnold Rothstein departed for the New Jerusalem—the Stormy Petrel of the current murder trial—was offered a week or two booking in vaudeville.

While she was scurrying around town consulting the best attorneys as to whether she should hold out for $5,000 a week, word came that the vaudeville people had changed their mind.

Thus the stage lost one of the greatest comedienne of all time. "What are your plans?" she was asked.

And she countered with her invariable response:

"That's for me to know and you to find out."

Kid McCoy Puts Out Prison Fire

(International News Service)
SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., Dec. 6.—Kid McCoy has added another knockout to his long string of conquests over the fire demon.

The Kid, whose official prison title is "fire chief" of San Quentin, responded to a grass fire alarm on the west side of the penitentiary reservation.

Using a few well-timed jabs with the chemical hose, the former boxer smothered the flames which started by a broken power line falling on dry grass. The fire threatened the home of several guards.

BAGGED THREE SQUIRRELS WITH ONE SHOT

(International News Service)
COLUMBUS, Ind., Dec. 6.—Bagging three squirrels with one shot was the record hung up by Edward Huenfeld, farmer living near here.

While hunting in the woods near shot.

his home, Huenfeld saw the shadow of three bushy tails on a fence post. The animals were on the limb of a tree some distance away. After watching the animals for some time, Huenfeld quickly shifted his position and brought them all down with one shot.

Sweden To Have Hospital Walls In Gay Colors

Leading Physician Of Stockholm Believes Gay Colors Would Aid Recovery

TO EMPLOY ARTIST ON NEW HOSPITAL

(International News Service) STOCKHOLM, Dec. 6.—Hospital walls in gay colors as a help to the recovery of health are recommended by Dr. Holmgren, one of Stockholm's leading physicians, and a member of the First Chamber or Senate of the Swedish Riksdag.

"All people are more sensitive to beauty than those who are well," he contends. "Why should works of art be kept in museums, when they might do more good to persons who suffer and who need cheering up?"

Art Elsewhere
"We decorate our churches, public schools and open squares with works of art and why not hospitals, where the patients have so much more time for contemplation?"

In pursuance of this program the Swedish artist and mural decorator, Einar Forseth, who designed the mosaics in the famous Gold Room of Stockholm's new city hall, has been engaged to choose the color schemes for the re-built Seraphim hospital in Stockholm of which Dr. Holmgren is the superintendent.

In Patients' Rooms.
Rooms where the patients are to stay a long time will be done in quiet, subdued colors, and those exposed to bright sunshine in green and gray, while those without direct sunlight in yellow and gray. For convalescents, the color scheme will go the limit in brilliance and gaiety.

The same is true of place where the patients will stay only a short time. Thus the waiting room of the public clinic has been done in yellow, green and red, and even the operating rooms have been decorated in lively colors.

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

Tariff bills, elections and smashes in the stock market come and go, but disputes over railroad freight rates we have with us forever. Of all the hard-driven branches of our government, the interstate commerce commission is easily among the first three. And not the least of their troubles is the so-called Hoch-Smith resolution, which was forced through congress by the efforts of form interests nearly five years ago.

That is a long story. But the Hoch-Smith idea is simple enough. It is that railroad freight rates on farm products ought to be figured as low as it is possible to do it, while still keeping them just and reasonable.

Certainly there is nothing very radical about that. All railroad rates ought to be as low as is just and reasonable, bearing in mind that adequate service must be maintained, and railroad stockholders allowed a just return on their investment.

But this principle, so simple to state, is extraordinarily difficult to carry out in practice. Farm leaders and farm generally have always felt that bulky farm products have been charged much higher railroad rates than the cost of moving them justified, and general merchandise of smaller bulk and higher value has been carried at rates much too low.

The basic idea of the Hoch-Smith resolution, therefore, was that all railroad rates ought to be overhauled rates on farm products reduced, and if necessary rates on general merchandise jacked up to compensate the railroads. The resolution did not say this, but that is what it meant.

The resolution also provided that the interstate commerce commission, in fixing railroad rates on a given commodity, should take into consideration the condition of the business that produced the commodity, over a term of years. In other words, if the freight rate on cotton was being considered, for example, the commission is supposed to bear in mind that the cotton mills have been having a hard time in the last few years, and put the rate lower than if otherwise would.

This provision, however, was intended primarily to apply to farming and farm products, not to cotton mills or other manufacturers.

Naturally any rule that is as general and indefinite as this makes it hard for the interstate commerce commission, who must make their decision on rates by exercising their judgement rather than on facts and figures.

To their credit be it said, they have done the best they could in the last five years to carry out the will of congress. They have reduced some rates on farm products. They have refused some increases that otherwise might have been granted. They have made some progress, though not a great deal, on an examination and overhauling of freight rates in general.

As to whether rates on farm products are in fact too high, and the related question as to "who pays the freight?"—that is altogether too big a subject for me to consider here.

Political Calendar Of State For 1930

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—The elections calendar for 1930 has been prepared by George D. Thorn, deputy secretary of the Commonwealth and chief of the bureau of elections:

The spring primary election will be Tuesday May 20.
The general election will be Tuesday November 4.

Nominations will be made at the primary for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of Internal Affairs, a justice of the State Supreme Court, a judge of the Superior court, all members of Congress, 26 State Senators and the full membership of the State House of Representatives. Candidates will be elected to these offices in November.

At the primary also members of political party committees will be elected.

Dates of importance to voters are: Last day to be registered for voters who were not registered for the November election of 1929 in Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Scranton in order to qualify them to vote at the spring primary of 1930 is Wednesday, April 16.

Voters who were enrolled by the party for 1929 elections and who have not changed their places of residence need not register anew for the 1930 primary.

Last day to be registered for the spring primary in all other cities for voters not registered for the November, 1929 election is Wednesday April 30.

Last days to be assessed for the November election are Friday and penses at the primary election, Thursday June 19.

Last day for filing nomination papers by independent bodies of citizens for any office, Friday September 5.

Last day when candidates nominated at the primary election may withdraw from nomination Monday September 15.

Clara Bow's latest picture demonstrates that "it" is something you lose when you add 30 pounds.

1930 Dog Licenses

Are Now Available

HARRISBURG, Dec. 6.—Dog licenses and tags for 1930, totaling more than 530,000 are now in the hands of county treasurers throughout the Commonwealth and can be secured by dog owners, according to the bureau of animal industry, Pennsylvania department of agriculture.

The dog law requires that 1930 tags be on all dogs by January 15. No extra time is allowed. After that date, it is just as much a violation of the law to allow a dog to be without a 1930 tag as it would be to operate an automobile without a new license on or after January 1, the bureau explains.

The dog license fees, as provided by the law, are $1 for male or spayed female and $2 for females. Applications for license for spayed females must be accompanied by veterinarian certificate or the affidavit of the owner.

Few things are more pathetic than the surprise of an important citizen when he discovers how unimportant he is in a strange town.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

A Lot of Applesauce

By Parke Whitney

THE last peal of thunder reverberated faintly and Iris sighed relievedly. During a two day's steady downpour she had been cooped up in the big house with Mimi, the maid, for company, and the two young colts, Nip and Tuck. Mimi, whimpering at the storm's increasing violence, had finally taken to bed, while the dogs nuzzled contentedly at Iris' feet in front of the fireplace.

She had taken down and skimmed through many volumes from the well-stocked shelves in grandfather Douay's splendid old library. In her five years' occupancy of the mansion she had acquired a special attachment for this spacious, high-walled room. Sundry books and papers, yellowed with age, intrigued her. This morning, for instance, a much-thumbed diary of her late grandmother's helped while away the dull, drab hours. Written in an sprawling hand, its pages were interspersed with mirth-provoking witcidisms. Grandma, it seemed, for all her girlish guilelessness, was a keen student of human nature. Several pages were devoted to grandfather Douay's favorite recipes. Evidently the old fellow had gourmet tendencies for such quaint things as "Taffaty Tarts," "Raspberry Ripple," "Mint Julep," and "Rosemary Snow" were recorded. "Douay's Favorite Applesauce, flavored with Mint and Cayenne Pepper," bore this cryptic message: "Through inadvertence the pepper was added, but Douay smacks his lips and, like Oliver Twist, cries for more." Must be the cayenne! So the recipe stands. It is woman's prerogative," wrote the wily Caroline Douay, "to employ every known artifice to keep ensnared the man she truly loves." Iris giggled. Eternally feminine—her esteemed grandma.

From a twin daguerreotype on a closed, a stately being, with fierce flowing mustaches, looked gravely at her. "Howdy, grandpa, you old walrus," laughed Iris irreverently. Her eyes rested pensively on his consort, a dimpled lady in voluminous dress, with pancake hat set atop a coquettish cluster of curls.

"Grandma," chuckled Iris, "I salute you—as a past mistress in the art of juggling both men and reels." She closed the book and, jumping up, opened wide a window. The fog was lifting and she noted that the storm had played havoc with neighbor Garvey's orchard. Dwight's precious apples, green, luscious things, literally carpeting the ground. Dwight, she knew, was depending on the Thanksgiving apple trade to help finance an operation on a troublesome hip, grim reminder of active days across the water in 1918.

It was Iris' coaxing that had kept Dwight carrying on at the old farm when, after his mother's death, he had been tempted to sell out. Iris had suggested building a roadside cabin, and in addition to the sale of fruit, specializing in duck sandwiches, which had since made him famous about the countryside.

Iris knew Dwight loved her. But womanly intuition told her volumes. Her wealth; his poverty! Angry tears came as she swung on a sweater and jammed a rakish tam over her dark hair.

Skirting the orchard, she ran up the path toward the little brown house. Dwight, she knew, had planned to harvest his fruit today. He was standing on the porch smoking disconsolately, but his face lit up at her approach.

"I'm out of luck, that's all," dryly. "A cool thousand."

"Couldn't you sell them as seconds?" brightly.

He shook his head. "Windfalls?"

"Wouldn't pay to gather them."

"But," persisted Iris, "couldn't you make pies, or dumplings, or apple butter? Oh, I know," excitedly,

"grandma Douay's applesauce, served with your duck sandwiches!"

"Applesauce?" Dwight laughed.

"I'm closing shop Saturday—"

"Yonder come the pickers," interrupted Iris, crisply. "Put them to work immediately. Phone Mimi to hustle up here and to bring an armful of mint from my garden. Hurry. Your fire is o. k.—smoke's curling out of your chimney and I smell roast duck. U-mm. Got any cayenne? Good! Fifty mill patrons due pronto." Opening the door of the house, she smiled gaily at him. "I'll find your mother's aprons." Followed a bustling among pots and pans.

Kettles of applesauce—most tempting-looking. Fragrant! Iris suggested giving each customer a sample with his duck sandwich. Artful mimi!—so like her grandmother Douay. For the patrons, like the grizzly old Douay himself, liked its snapshiness, and, smacking their lips, begged for more. All afternoon there was a steady stream of customers to partake of it. Nightfall found her flushed and radiant. "It's been thrilling," she confessed.

By Saturday they were on the last of the crop. Five hundred gallons ordered by a noted chef in town! And Jackson, the big apple grower from up-state, coming! Iris was jubilant. If Jackson wanted grandmother Douay's recipe he'd pay—handsomely!

"We are $2,000 to the good," Dwight had confided that morning. Iris was still thrilling at the "we" when Jackson arrived. "I've come for the recipe," beaming. "Hanged if my curiosity ain't aroused! Apples all down and I'm crazy. Got a sample handy?"

"Certainly," indicating a generous "sample." "We've sold thousands of gallons, and still filling orders. It was my grandmother Douay's recipe," proudly. "Taste."

He tasted. "What'll you sell the recipe for?"

"A thousand dollars," promptly.

"Attaboy—sold! Scribble it," succinctly.

Iris dimpled. "Member what the pie-man said to Simple Simon?" archly.

He glowered, then, grinning, extended a roll of bills. "H'm, Grandma Douay's own kin," admiringly.

She was shedding Dwight's mother's voluminous apron when Dwight appeared. She waved aloft Jackson's thousand. "Iris, how can I repay you?" Iris flared. "Pay? Applesauce!" indignantly. Then, breathlessly: "We've had the time of our lives, Mimi and me. I haven't been so happy for—ages," lip quivering suspiciously.

Dwight was nonplussed. Quoth he: "Your grandmother Douay was a wonderful woman. They say she made your grandfather."

"Undoubtedly." Folding the apron in two, Iris went behind the door to hang it up. "You see, she loved grandfather," her voice slightly muffled. "And a woman, Dwight, will do—much—for the man she truly loves."

He strode forward. "Dwight!" mockingly. Yet a bit shy and wistful withal.

That was all. But that was enough.

"Ah, My husband has always been a lucky man. As a child he was thrown by a horse but wasn't injured. As a youth the ice broke beneath him but he wasn't drowned. As a young man he was caught in an Alpine avalanche but escaped uninjured. . . ."

Gold 'Statue' Is Taking Place Of Old Time 'Brick'

Smart Parisians Buy Ancient Bric-a-brac To Find It Only Bronze

GREEK FARMER IS ENRICHED BY $10,000

By GEORGE AXELSSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Dec. 6.—The ancient gold-brick has become a statue of the same metal. Two smart Parisians who bought it off a dumb looking Greek farmer for $10,000, found that out.

The poor peasant from Greece came to Paris with the statue, which he found in his field near Delphos. Suspicious to a fault, he did not see an antiquarian or a bullion merchant about the precious statue. Instead, he confided in a fellow countryman, a Greek army officer.

This officer had no trouble in finding intermediary buyers, the kind that like to run into a good thing. A couple of such "sneakers" were induced to come to the home of the farmer, where they beheld as pretty a statue as they had ever seen.

They asked to be allowed to take the statue away to test the gold. But the farmer was not such a simpleton. "Well, then," the city boys said, "we'll chip off a piece and examine it regularly with acids." After some discussion, the prospective buyers were permitted to take a sample from under the arms of the statue.

The "sneakers" examined their sample and found it to be the real goods.

The statue, 110 pounds, was worth $40,000, if it was worth a cent. They hastened back to the poor peasant, who did seem satisfied to take $10,000, ignorant as he was about the true value of so much gold.

It was agreed, under hand, that the Greek officer should get a nice commission, once he had seen the peasant safely off to his native Greece.

The officer never claimed his commission, and the boys were not surprised, for they found the statue to be entirely of gilt bronze. The only gold consisted of small patches, a few pure grains, under the arms.

Lazy Soviet Mailman Threw Letters Away

(International News Service)

LENINGRAD, Dec. 6.—A pile of several thousand letters many of them containing matters of government business, and hundreds of newspapers were discovered in the cellar of an abandoned house which wreckers were tearing down.

Investigation revealed that a mail carrier, too lazy to tramp one block out of his way down a side street in rainy weather had for years thrown the mail for his part of his beat down the basement window of the house. He has been arrested and faces a heavy prison sentence for sabotage of the Soviet regime.

May Change Name Of Franz Joseph Land

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Dec. 6.—The Soviet Geographical Society has asked the government to change the name of Franz Joseph land, the island in the Arctic near which Gen. Noble and his dirigible Italia were wrecked more than a year ago, to Michael Lomonosov island, in honor of the first Russian scientist to achieve world fame.

The Society also wants Wrangel island renamed for the noted hydraulic engineer Davydov, whose explorations on the island added much to the world's knowledge of conditions in the far north.

The reason given for the changing names is that a revolutionary nation ought not honor even a dead king and a counter-revolutionary general.

New York Budget To Reach $325,000,000

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 6.—New York State's cost of government for the next year, revised estimates show, may reach $325,000,000, an increase of $60,000,000 over the last fiscal year.

Nineteen million dollars of the increase is for education.

During the next year the state will spend approximately $119,000,000 for education.

Expansion of prisons, enlargement of the prisons and highways are responsible for a large part of the remainder of the increase in the cost of government.

You're just the man—the Pennsylvanian from Missouri. You want proof that ESSO is a better motor fuel for your car. You could take the word of thousands of motorists and expert mechanics—but prove ESSO for yourself. Fill up your tank to the brim—then—

Tap the starter with your foot. Shift the gears. What a pick-up! Off with the wind. Never a "knock" or a "ping" or a thumping sound. Sweet? You'll smile all over.

Many motorists say ESSO gives extra miles, too. You will probably agree. But that livelier, newly awakened motor is worth the few extra cents that ESSO costs.

Look for ESSO at the silver pumps with the ESSO globes—today. A premium fuel because it's worth it.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Men are bemoaning the fact that women are lengthening their skirts. They had been doing a lot of talking about how they loved the old-fashioned girls, and how there weren't any of them left, and how they remained bachelors because they couldn't find a girl like mother. You would have thought they were bored with knee dresses!

Just wait Brother. You will find that most of these long, thin, billowy evening skirts are either shamelessly transparent, or they separate in the middle of the front and fall back when the lady sits down. The under part is even shorter than of old, so that when the material falls to one side you will see silk legs and knees revealed in the most artistic fashion. They know what not to wear and how not to wear it: these modern women.

Legs have been a lot of help to poor girls who couldn't attract by her clothes, but managed to trip straight into some important hearts through the medium of a superior pair of underpinning. If legs hadn't been so popular with men the girls wouldn't have chopped their skirts off another inch each season, until the wind was almost ashamed to blow.

But in order to keep men entertained, the girls have cut the backs out of their evening dresses, and fitted what's left of the waists very tightly to delineate the human form divine. Then to make no mistake about it, they have tied ribbons about their high waist lines.

If men will be patient they shall see. The girls are merely shifting scenery.

With women so plentiful and men so choosy, the girls have to work hard to get ahead of each other. To get ahead a girl must be charming. To be charming she must interest men. To interest them she has to think fast after the revealing aspects of the past season. And don't ever think she isn't doing it. She hasn't fallen down on her job since Eve decided to wear something. It still remains true that "age cannot wither nor custom stale her infinite variety." Long skirts do not mean that she hasn't a whole sleeve full of bigger and better tricks.

Divorces In Austria Show Big Increase

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Dec. 6.—The number of divorces granted by Austrian courts increased ten times during the last forty years, and more than four times in the last ten years, as shown by recent official statistics.

About 5700 marriages were dissolved in 1929, 1400 in 1918, and only 550 in 1890.

The data concerning the divorces by duration of marriages show that marriage is mostly endangered between the second and tenth year of its duration, while only four per cent of the divorces were granted to couples married for less than a year, and eight per cent to such married for more than twenty years.

Smallest Tax Payment Is Palm Beach Puzzle

(International News Service)

WEST PALM BEACH, Dec. 6.—The smallest tax payment on record in this county is in the hands of Tax Collector Roy A. O'Bannon, and he doesn't know what to do with it.

Robert E. James, an Easton, Pa., attorney, has sent the collector his check for one cent in payment of his Okeechobee flood control tax on a lot in Jupiter, Fla.

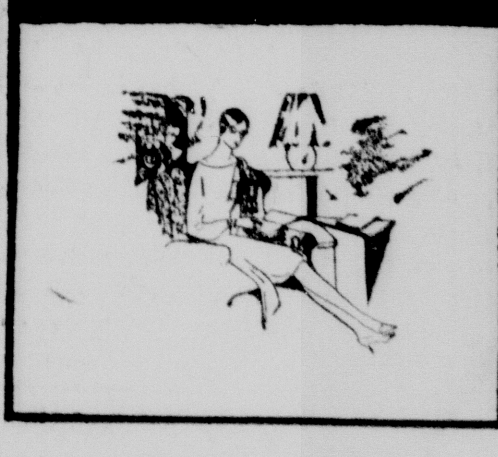

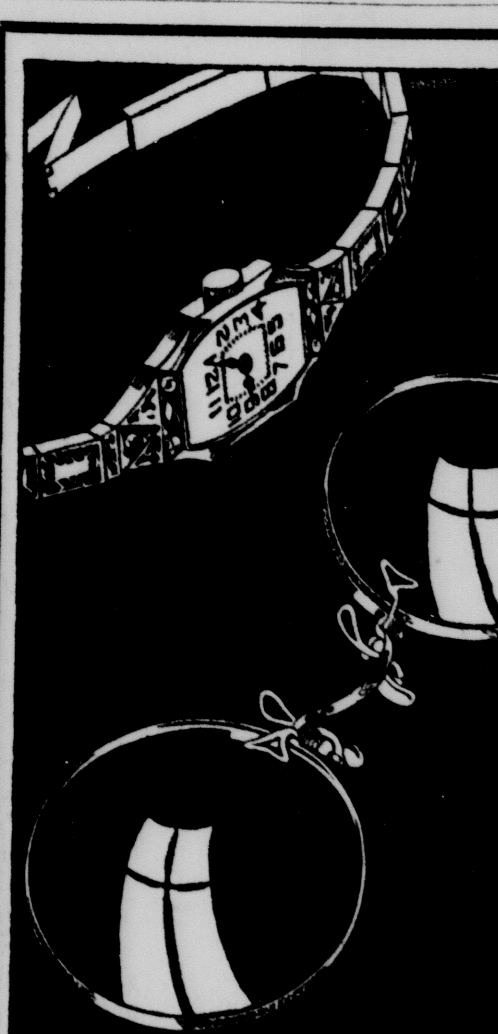

The hitch lies here though—the law provides a 4 per cent discount on taxes paid in October and November, so James is due 4 per cent of a cent back. O'Bannon doesn't know how that can be done.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of The World War
185—Gough's Disaster

MARCH 21, 1918, VON HINDENBURG LAUNCHED HIS GREAT SPRING DRIVE ALONG A 50-MILE FRONT BETWEEN ARRAS AND THE OISE. 64 GERMAN DIVISIONS TOOK PART IN THE ATTACK, WHICH BEGAN AT 4:30 O'CLOCK IN THE MORNING. FIRST, CAME A BLASTING FIRE FROM THE GERMAN ARTILLERY, DELUGING THE BRITISH POSITIONS WITH GAS SHELLS AND HIGH EXPLOSIVE.

THEN, SCREENED BY THE HAZE, THE GERMAN INFANTRY "CAME OVER" IN GREAT WAVES, TEN RANKS DEEP. THE BRUNT OF THE ATTACK FELL UPON GOUGH'S 5TH BRITISH ARMY, WHICH WAS HOLDING THE LINE FROM THE SOMME IN FRONT OF ST. QUENTIN TO THE OISE WITH ONLY 5,000 MEN TO A MILE.

DOPELESSLY OUTNUMBERED, STUNNED AND SHATTERED BY THE SLEET OF STEEL AND DRENCHED WITH GAS SHELLS, GOUGH'S ARMY WAS QUICKLY OVERWHELMED AND DRIVEN BEYOND THE SOMME, AND THE GERMANS STREAMED THROUGH THE GAP. FURTHER TO THE NORTH, BEFORE CAMBRAI, BYNG'S 3RD ARMY STOOD FIRMLY, THOUGH HARD-PRESSED BY THE ENEMY.

WITHIN THREE DAYS THE GERMANS HAD HURLED BACK THE REMNANTS OF GOUGH'S ARMY, POURED ACROSS THE SOMME AND ADVANCED NINE MILES ALONG THE ROAD TO AMIENS. IF AMIENS FELL, THE VITAL RAILWAY LINK BETWEEN THE BRITISH AND FRENCH WOULD BE SEVERED! TOMORROW—GERMAN ADVANCE IN PICARDY.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

Riding without handlebars to attract a little attention on the way home from school.

THE GUMPS—

Little does Tom Carr realize viewing from his box seat the tragedians, heroes—and heroines as they strut before the footlights—that he, himself, is playing the leading role in one of life's great dramas.

High Floormen Have Workout

New Castle High School Basketball Candidates Hold Two Hour Practice

McAULEY-URAM SHAPE UP WELL

A workout lasting a little over the two hour mark made up the menu for the New Castle high school 1929-30 basketball candidates on Thursday afternoon at the gym of the school. Phil H. Bridenbaugh, the head coach is pleased with the material on hand for this season and when December 13 rolled on with New Castle playing its first game against Williamsburg Hi here, a well balanced and fast team will be seen, judging from the first extensive session.

The 30 floormen first practiced shooting, followed by going around the ring. Coach Bridenbaugh then lined up ten players. Five playing defensive ball while the others were on the offensive. In this way he is building his defense and offense. Following this a scrimmage in which all the candidates participated, followed. This lasted for about three quarters of an hour.

This ended the workout. New faces were seen on the floor last night. Among those were "Red" McAuley, Russell Hannon, Nick Uram, Benny D. Thomas, Dick Thomas, "Red" McIntosh, Arthur Alexander, "Red" McAuley and Nick Uram looked very impressive last night. George Winter and Alexander also showed up well.

Workouts will now be held every afternoon in the gym until the floor season which ends in March is over. Out of the 30 members out some 12 will be retained for the season.

NEWS EDITORIAL BOWLERS WIN

Outlook Office Team From Lehigh In First Games Of Series

There is a note of pathos in the Lehigh cement plant whistle today. A sad note pervades the office conversation, and a touch of reverence is seen as mention is made of the New Castle News Editorial bowling team. Battling with bowling balls the news bards hung a tasty licking on the cement office team to the tune of 1801 to 1623 in three games.

Modesty would dictate little copy in this article, for after laying an opponent low there isn't any use kicking him in the bridge work. And truth would demand that a good word be said about the bowling of the cement men in spots, but there weren't enough spots.

Walthers and Landolf Hot

For the News team Walthers and Landolf were hot, almost to the boiling point in fact, and their stellar work was responsible for the win, although now and then the balance of the team crashed through with a few nice frames.

The match was the first of a series of three matches, the second to be played next Tuesday evening. With the same luck, the News team ought to do well. The details of last night's jousting appears below:

All But Three Of Eastern Players Accept Offers

(International News Service)

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 6.—All but three of the 11 football stars invited to join the eastern squad for the annual east vs west game for charity on the coast on New Year's day have accepted, today.

Players who have indicated that they will join the squad when it gathers at Chicago on December 16, are: Deb Secrist, W. & J. Hal Booma, Dartmouth, and Donchess, Pittsburgh; Eds, Montgomery, Pittsburgh, guard; Cox, Colgate, center; Yabok, Colgate, Brazil, of Detroit and Dowler of Colgate, backs.

The two Pittsburgh stars have accepted, providing the Panthers do not play a post-season game. The eastern acceptance will be joined at Chicago by 11 players selected by Dick Hanley, Northwestern coach.

Hordes Of

Thirty One Candidates In Titan Floor Squad

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Dec. 6.—Thirty-one candidates for the Westminster college basketball team are working each night in the college gym under direction of Coach "Johnny" Lawther. Six baskets have been installed so that each man on the large squad may have plenty of practice at the hoops.

The new material and the veterans represent four states. Six candidates are from Ohio, two from New Jersey, one from New York, and the others are from Western Pennsylvania. Three former Kiski players: Delahunty, Brownlee, and Seifert, are on the squad. Among the football players who have reported for the cage sport are Michaels, Deacle, Rehfs, Cebula, Tate, Cann, Brownlee, Armour, Morrison.

In addition to seven lettermen and a number of first-string substitutes from last year's great team, many freshmen and new aspirants from the sophomore class have reported to Lawther. While the reserve material is plentiful, there have been no outstanding players unearthed to date. In fact, Coach Lawther is worried over the lack of capable substitutes.

Those on the squad are: Captain O'Donovan, Pittsburgh, forward; Kenneth Delahunty, Indiana, forward; William Crowell, Sharon, center; Marshall Fisher, Boardman, O., guard; Phillip Rice, Duquesne, guard; Harry Brownlee, Lock Haven, center;

Michael Kocheran, Duquesne, forward; John Hamas, East Rutherford, N. J., forward; Harvey Selfert, Erie, guard; Daniel Considine, Akron, O., center; Ted Blamer, Sharon, guard; Robert Cann, Stoneboro, forward; Bert Tate, West Middlesex, guard; Gerald Newton, New Wilmington, forward; Milton Harding, Erie, forward; Robert Deacle, Sharpsville, guard; George Dvornak, Duquesne, guard; William Armour, Sharon, center; Willis Porter, Mt. Victory, O., forward; Edward Montgomery, Tarentum, center.

Kenneth Miller, Swissvale, guard; Glenn Rehfs, Sandusky, O., forward; Harry Michaels, Turtle Creek, center; Lorenz Stocker, Pittsburgh, forward; James Smalley, Elizabeth, guard; George Cebula, Campbell, O., guard; David Morrison, Elizabeth, guard; Robert Patterson, Lyndhurst, N. J., forward; William Smith, Cambridge, N. Y., forward; Robert Perkins, Sharon, forward; and Harold Thomas, Warren, O., guard.

Coach Lawther will cut this squad to 20 men at the start of next week's practice sessions. Of the 20 men selected then, 15 will be retained as the first-string squad later in the season. The Titan mentor will have an opportunity of seeing what the new men can do when the Westminster squad meets six district opponents this month in pre-season games. The regular schedule does not start until Jan. 3 at Grove City.

Clyde Milan, veteran outfielder, quitting as coach of the Washington Senators to become manager of the Birmingham team, is not new to a managerial berth in the Southern League. In 1925 Milan was in charge of the Memphis team, resigning in the middle of the 1926 season to go to Washington.

Born 43 years ago at Linden, Tenn., Milan developed into one of the best base runners of his time.

Following a long period with Washington, he began his managerial career by piloting the Senators in 1922. The following season he led New Haven in the Eastern League.

Milan succeeds Johnny Dobbs, who has identified himself with the Atlanta club.

Bootlegger Makes Terrible Error

MOUNT PLEASANT, Md., Dec. 2.—When it comes to lending a helping hand—even to itinerant bootleggers—Sheriff Schertel's department aims to please.

Recently an enterprising youth drove into town with a load of liquid refreshments and started to find an outlet. He approached a genial individual standing on the street corner and asked in a low tone, "How would you like a drink?"

"Sure thing," was the reply. He climbed into the stranger's car and rode with him to the outskirts of town, where the drink was produced.

"Say," said the bootlegger, "can't you help me out? Where can I get rid of some of this stuff?" "Sure thing!" agreed the still genial individual. "I know just the place."

"Just the place" happened to be the county jail and the genial individual happened to be Deputy A. C. Hulse. Robert Pease, 26, was the bootlegger and he is now awaiting appearance before the circuit court.

Another man can handle your job, never fear. And right now the lad who will straighten the post Mussolini tangle is practicing on snafuetti.

Utility Stocks Stage Upward Rally Today

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—After early irregularity, in which profit-taking left over from yesterday's session was included in the utility stocks stage another of their characteristic upward movements in lively trading this morning. The bulls were enthusiastic as buying demand flowed in for the gas light, electric and power shares which have been the outstanding leaders in the market this week.

American and foreign power raced up about 5 points to 92 3/4, in the lead of this group, while American Waterworks, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, North American and other popular utilities scored new gains of 1 to 3 points. United Corporation was in the line light for the low-priced utilities, and sold above 37 for the first time since the crash. This is

Police Aid In Settling Bill

Local police aided the Bell Telephone company in the settlement of a bill for $9.20, which Albert Holmes of East Brook, had run up on a long distance call, from the American restaurant and then walked out without paying.

Holmes, according to Manager John R. Dunfee, placed a long distance call to Cleveland, and after putting 60 cents in the slot, proceeded to talk 52 minutes, ignoring the demands for more money. After running up the bill to $9.80, Holmes walked out of the restaurant.

Manager Dunfee was notified and he called the police. Officer McMillen picking Holmes up near the Diamond station, Holmes at first refused to pay, but when faced with incarceration, agreed to settle.
